EXPLANATORY NOTE

The Philippine Overseas Employment Administration has said that 1.6 million Filipinos were deployed abroad, and that total remittances has reached $26.92 billion (P1.20 trillion). Overall we were third in the world at receiving remittances, behind India and China, based on statistics from the World Bank.

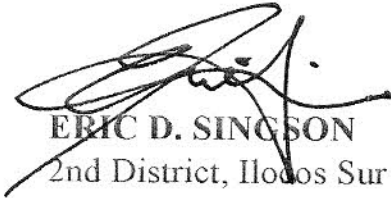

The Overseas Filipino Workers (OFWs) has been referred to as modern-day heroes. They have contributed much to improve the living conditions not only their families but also contributed greatly to the nation's economy. Their remittances make up nearly ten percent of the Philippine gross domestic product. That is the very reason why they are considered one of the pillars of the new Philippine economy.

Article XIII Section 3 of the Constitution states that "[t]he State shall afford full protection to labor, local and overseas, organized and unorganized, and promote full employment and equality of employment opportunities for all." In keeping with this declaration, the State has created the Philippine Overseas Employment Administration (POEA) and Overseas Workers Welfare Administration (OWWA) assisted by the Department of Foreign Affairs and the Department of Labor and Employment. But despite the presence of these institutions, OFWs still feel neglected and unsupported by the government.

Considering the importance of Overseas Filipino Workers and their contribution to the Philippine economy, it is but appropriate that a separate Department be created. President Rodrigo Duterte has indicated that such department should provide immediate, prompt, and effective response to OFWs problems both local and abroad. He said that there should be a Department of Overseas Filipino Workers. In addition, I also propose that there should be an official OFW bank, possible the Landbank, which shall address the OFWs financial needs.

In view of the foregoing, the immediate passage of this bill is earnestly sought
