EXPLANATORY NOTE

The Office of the Ombudsman unlike other vital government agencies lacks fiscal autonomy. The Office of Ombudsman cannot attract and employ top notch people and experts because, with this lack of fiscal independence, the salaries it offers are much lower compared to those given in the private sector. Its employees cannot fully perform their duties due to lack of equipment and logistic support. Worse, with their meagre salaries the officers and employees of the Office of the Ombudsman are susceptible to commit graft and corruption.

Under Republic Act No. 6770 or the "Ombudsman Act of 1989", the Ombudsman and his deputies, shall act promptly on complaints filed against officers or employees of the Government, or any of its subdivision, agency or instrumentality, including government-owned or controlled corporation, and enforce their administrative, civil and criminal liability in every case where the evidence warrants in order to promote efficient service by the Government to the people.

With this huge responsibility, it is imperative that the Office of the Ombudsman be granted enhanced fiscal autonomy to be able to fulfil its duty as a pillar of good governance.
