AN ACT ESTABLISHING A CAMPUS OF THE PHILIPPINE MERCHANT MARINE ACADEMY (PMMA) IN MINDANAO TO BE KNOWN AS THE PHILIPPINE MERCHANT MARINE ACADEMY-MINDANAO CAMPUS AND APPROPRIATING FUNDS THEREFOR

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The skill for seafaring of our brothers in Mindanao is of national notice.

Since time immemorial, they have sailed the high seas and traded with our Asian neighbors using boats of their own design and built using indigenous materials. Their version of fast crafts, called "kumpits", are reputed even today to easily outrun their imported counterparts in our own Philippine Navy. Their innate love of the sea makes them natural students of the merchant marine, and needs only to be given the opportunity to hone and sharpen these skills at a proper institute for them to compete at an international level as Filipino global maritime professionals.

The significance of the Philippine maritime industry, which transcends both the global and national arena cannot be overemphasized. Foremost, 90% of world trade is still reliant in international shipping. This means that almost all the food we eat, clothes we wear, the things we buy, use, own, in one way or another, were shipped on board vessels before they got to us. Shipping clearly moves the world. Corollary to this, our Filipino seafarers play a major role in the shipping industry as a whole, with 1 out of 4 seafarers onboard international vessel being Filipinos, thus comprising about 30% of the total global maritime professionals in the world.

In a national scale, our Filipino seafarers onboard international fleets have greatly contributed to our social economic progress. Their foreign exchange remittances grow annually, notwithstanding that our seafarers comprise only 5% of the total OFWs working abroad. In fact, in 2014, their contributions amounted to USD5.6 billion out of the USD24.3 billion dollars aggregate OFW remittances or more than 20% thereof.

Surely, all these opportunities and level of importance can be well extended to our brothers in Mindanao. Thus, this bill seeks to establish a state-run maritime college in Mindanao, preferably through a campus of the Philippine Merchant Marine Academy, to be appropriately funded by government for its establishment and operation. Philippine Merchant Marine Academy (PMMA) offers various educational and training courses solely dedicated to maritime, including its major programs for Bachelor of Science in Marine Transportation and in Marine Engineering. It endeavors to provide all its graduates the skills and ability to be globally competitive maritime professionals, ready to obtain their careers in the shipping business whether here or elsewhere in the world. Records show that in both 2011 and 2012, 99% of its students were able to embark in international vessels for shipboard training. An average of 200 graduates every year is produced, with 100% finding immediate employment. Thus, these graduates are assured of good career opportunities with each of them guaranteed an average monthly income of US$8 thousand to US$12 thousand as they progress to become maritime officers.

Considering that at present, the entire Mindanao has no state-run maritime school offering courses in marine transportation or in marine engineering, a PMMA Campus in the island will certainly encourage the youth who dream to become Filipino global maritime professionals, but have little choice to enroll in private schools or uproot themselves in order to study in Manila or elsewhere.

The creation of a PMMA Campus in Mindanao is thus intended to address these aspirations and democratize access to maritime education and training in Mindanao. It will enhance the economic engine and bring about much-needed development to the Tri-People in the south, benefiting Muslims, Lumads, and Christian settlers alike.

More importantly, this proposed measure is an initial step towards allowing any qualified Filipino, anywhere in these thousands of our islands, the chance to embark on his own destiny upon the open seas of opportunity in his chosen maritime profession.

The passage of this bill cannot come at a more opportune time.
