HOUSE BILL NO. 1033

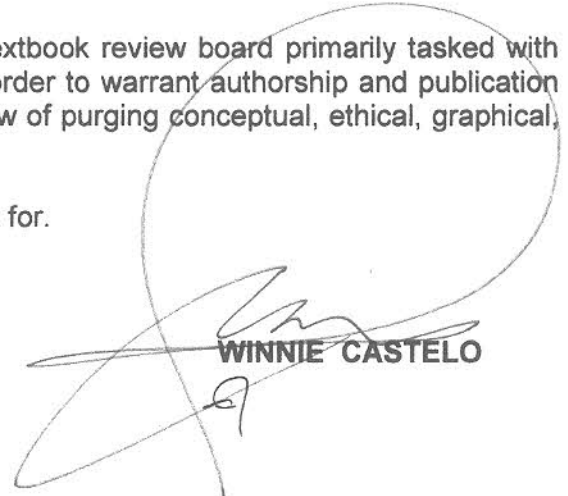

Introduced by Rep. Winston "Winnie" Castelo

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The chronic occurrence of errors in textbooks is alarming as it is discouraging. For the most part, elementary and high school students rely on their textbooks for information and reference. Textbooks have become the main handbooks of students from which they cite and quote articles of knowledge. The textbook is the authority upon which the students' basic knowledge formation is built. However, if the textbook is replete with errors, be it conceptual, ethical or grammatical in nature, then the student would be led astray. Instead of being a potent learning aid, the textbook would even serve as a nefarious learning tool. Young learners trained up with such erratic tools encode fallacious automatization of knowledge in their schemata, and hence, are cerebrally conditioned to learn in the wrong direction.

Hence, there should be established a national textbook review board primarily tasked with the review of all textbooks before publication in order to warrant authorship and publication of such learning materials and with the end in view of purging conceptual, ethical, graphical, grammatical and practical errors therefrom.

The immediate passage of this measure is sought for.
