EXPLANATORY NOTE

This measure provides protection against various forms of discriminatory practices. It does not accord additional entitlements to any communities instead; it ensures that violations or threats to human rights are addressed.

The fundamental law also declares that the State values the dignity of every human person and guarantees full respect for human rights (Section 11, Article 11, 1987 Constitution). It also imposes on the State the duty to ensure the fundamental equality before the law of women and men (Sec. 14, Id.).

The bill is also not simply punitive. It also recognizes that preventive measures are of equal importance. It responds to stigma, or the dehumanization of vulnerable individuals or communities, and ensures that respect for diversity is promoted. It thus supports the inclusion of various vulnerable communities in the government's social protection programs, and that within the private and public spheres, 'diversity programs' are established and implemented.

As the country moves towards the fulfillment of the guarantees provided by the Constitution and by various human rights instruments, discrimination needs to be addressed and eliminated. No Filipino should be left behind.
For these reasons, passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
