House Bill No. _______

____________

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The Personnel Economic Relief Allowance (PERA) started as a form of additional compensation to buffer against the effects of inflation and rising prices of commodities because of the turmoil in the Middle East in the 1990s. However, gasoline prices, transportation fares and prices of basic commodities have drastically increased since the inception of PERA have proven that the PERA not only serves as an emergency allowance that augments the earnings of a government worker, but as a major source of additional funding to be able to afford basic commodities. Further, any adjustments to the PERA will need legislative approval to further augment the value of the allowance versus economic reality.

The present P2,000 PERA was last adjusted in July 2009 by then President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo. The ensuing years saw no increase in the PERA despite the continuing rise in the average daily costs. This bill proposes that the Personnel Economic Relief Allowance (PERA) be subject to an across the board increase and be subject to an automatic annual adjustment equivalent to any increase of the annual inflation rate in the country.

We propose to increase the PERA of Government employees to P5,000. The P3,000 increase will be a very significant assistance that the Filipino people can use in these times of economic hardships. We also propose that the PERA be adjusted yearly according to the annual inflation rate that the country may experience. This makes the PERA responsive to the needs of the government workers in the event of inflation.

Hence, the immediate passing of this bill is earnestly sought.
