EXPLANATORY NOTE

The 1987 Constitution provides for the following State Policies in Article II, Sections 9, 18, and 20:

SECTION 9. The State shall promote a just and dynamic social order that will ensure the prosperity and independence of the nation and free the people from poverty through policies that provide adequate social services, promote full employment, a rising standard of living, and an improved quality of life for all.

SECTION 18. The State affirms labor as a primary social economic force. It shall protect the rights of workers and promote their welfare.

SECTION 20. The State recognizes the indispensable role of the private sector, encourages private enterprise, and provides incentives to needed investments.

The principal consideration of our Overseas Filipino Workers (OFWs) in working abroad is to provide for their families. These OFWs endure living away from their families and work in a foreign land to provide a better life for their loved ones by sending a portion of their earnings, in a form of remittances.

According to the Governor of Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas, Amando M. Tetangco, Jr., personal remittances from OFWs for the first ten (10) months of the year reached US$24.4 billion in 2016, equivalent to a 3.9 percent growth year-on-year. These remittances sent by OFWs to their families in the Philippines are then used to cover household expenses, educational expenses, and other expenses of the family.

These OFW remittances are transferred from the OFWs to the intermediaries, such as financial and non-bank financial institutions, before it reaches beneficiaries. In the course of the transfer of the funds, the amount remitted is subjected to several fees and high remittance charges which result to the depletion of the amount to be remitted and received by beneficiaries.

In view of the effect of high remittance charges on the hard-earned wages of OFWs, which should instead be enjoyed by them and their respective families, it becomes a matter of utmost urgency and necessity for Congress to enact a law that will adequately and effectively put a stop to the imposition of high remittance charges and safeguard the remittances sent by OFWs, which includes providing educational programs on how these OFWs can manage their finances.

The proposed measure seeks to (1) provide for a limit on the amount of remittance charges to be imposed by intermediaries; (2) provide discounts on remittance fees to be shouldered by OFWs based on a graduated scale and; (3) provide for tax incentives to intermediaries which shall provide for such discounts. It likewise mandates government agencies, such as the Department of Finance and the Overseas Workers Welfare Administration, to provide for financial management programs to OFWs and their families.

It is for this reason that the early approval of the Bill is earnestly sought.

OF OVERSEAS FILIPINO WORKERS, AND FOR OTHER PURPOSES

Be it enacted by the Senate and the House of Representatives of the Philippines in Congress assembled:

SECTION 1. Short Title.—This Act shall be known as the “Overseas Filipino Workers (OFWs) Remittance Protection Act.”

SEC. 2. Declaration of Policy.—The State upholds the dignity of all its citizens, whether residents of the Philippines or overseas.

The State shall afford full protection to labor, local and overseas, organized and unorganized and shall promote full employment and equality of employment opportunities for all.

The State recognizes the significant contribution of Overseas Filipino Workers to the national economy through their foreign exchange remittances. Towards this end, the State shall ensure that effective mechanisms be instituted to ensure the protection of the rights and interests of Overseas Filipino Workers, particularly, the protection of their foreign exchange remittances. The State likewise guarantees the protection of OFW remittances from usurious interest rates and fees charged by financial institutions.

The State guarantees protection of the foreign exchange remittances of Overseas Filipino Workers. With this regard, the State recognizes the right of Overseas Filipino Workers to access to courts, quasi-judicial bodies and adequate legal assistance. Towards this end, the State ensures that no OFW shall be denied access to the courts, quasi-judicial bodies and to adequate legal assistance by reason of poverty.

The State recognizes the need to educate Overseas Filipino Workers and their families on financial planning, management of finances and savings. Towards this end, the State undertakes to provide programs and seminars to ensure the education of OFWs and their families.

(b) “Overseas Filipino Workers’ (OFW) Remittance” refers to the foreign exchange earnings sent home by overseas Filipinos working abroad or their employees or agents through formal channels.
