Incidents of Teenage pregnancy in the Philippines is increasing. In fact, one in ten young Filipino women age 15-19 has begun childbearing: 8% of which are already mothers and another 2% are pregnant with their first child according to the results of the 2013 National Demographic and Health Survey (NDHS). The survey also reveals that one in five or 19% of young adult Filipino women aged 18 to 24 years had initiated their sexual activity before age 18 and some of them had their first intimate sexual act before marriage.

The issue of teenage pregnancy contributed to the continually increasing the population growth as well as problems on poverty. Hence, there is a need to establish a national policy to prevent teenage pregnancy and institutionalize social protection for teenage parents.

This proposed measure, based on House Bill 4742 introduced by Rep. Sol Aragones during the 17th Congress, aims to ensure the rights of every girl/young woman to proper education, including age-appropriate comprehensive sex education and access to youth friendly reproductive health programs and services.
