EXPLANATORY NOTE

Article XVIII, Section 24 of the Constitution declares that private armies and other groups not recognized by duly constituted authority shall be dismantled. However, up until now, no law has been enacted to penalize private armies and other armed groups. The culture of fear still prevails, especially during elections, brought about chiefly by the existence of local warlords and their private armies.

Politicians usually hire goons and build up private armies not only to protect themselves but also to intimidate political opponents. The Philippine National Police (PNP) estimates that there are 3,779 numbers of Private Army Groups (PAGs) in the country with also a total of 1,110,277 number of loose firearms. A special military task force estimates that these private armies are responsible for 68 of the 98 deaths recorded in the 2001 elections. During the 2013 elections, a reported 67 elections related incidents and 52 casualties were reported. This last May 2016 polls, there were 22 reported elections related violence leading to the death of 10 civilians and 3 others wounded.

Although there have been a number of documented abuses committed by these groups, the authorities have failed to suppress them due to the lack of clear-cut government policy guidelines. Conversely, their strength has rendered the state weak and unable to protect its citizenry.

It is hoped that the passage of this measure shall put a halt to this practice of organizing private armies by politicians.

In view of the foregoing, approval of this measure is earnestly sought.
