EXPLANATORY NOTE

The fact of on-going armed conflicts in our nation has marrd not only the peace and order in our nation but as well as the security of people to a peaceful abode including their enjoyment of rights and freedom. The current armed conflict in certain parts of the country between rebel and government armed forces have displaced thousands of families from their homes due to forced evacuation or in their flight to safer grounds. As such, it is a pressing concern that their rights and freedom are protected and ensured under our laws as well as international laws. In particular, the non-combatants should be ensured of their rights such that the presence of armed conflicts should not be a cause for discrimination in the equal enjoyment of rights and freedom.

Thus, this house bill is filed in our adherence and commitment to the principles of the 1987 Constitution including the standards set by international humanitarian law and human rights law. Our commitment includes the nation’s policy in protecting internally displaced families who are in situations of armed conflicts, generalized violence, tribal/clan wars, violations of human rights, aggressive implementation of development projects, as well as displacement of affected families due to natural and man-made disasters.

This measure seeks to provide protection of rights of internally displaced person during and after displacement as well as their resettlement, relocation and reintegration. It also covers arbitrary displacement of civilians as a result of or in order to avoid the effects of armed conflicts, generalized violence, violations of human rights, aggressive implementation of development projects as well as natural and man-made disasters in relation to RA 10121 or the Philippines’ Disaster Risk Reduction and Management Act of 2010.

Further, the measure provides for the prohibited acts of arbitrary internal displacement, the protection of the individuals from arbitrary internal displacement except in situations inevitable but should be complaint with the guarantees provided therein such as full disclosure on the reasons and procedures of displacement. To complete the measure in protecting the rights of the internally displaced persons, it provides for their rights during and after displacement. This is pursuant to the provisions of the Bill of Rights that they shall not be subjected to any kind of discrimination especially in cases of armed conflicts purportedly anchored on political and religious beliefs.

To fully satisfy the rights of the internally displaced persons, they are afforded the rights to provision and access to basic necessities, protection against criminal offenses and unlawful acts and most importantly, the freedom of movement.

Lastly, the measure provides for mechanism for international humanitarian assistance including their local counterparts by assuring them the right to offer their services without considering their action as interference in local affairs. However, their action shall still be subject to our laws particularly in importation and donations of food, clothing, medicine and equipment.

Thus, the passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
