EXPLANATORY NOTE

The Philippines has made great leaps in fulfilling its commitment to the United Nation Millennium Goal of reducing child mortality and improving maternal health. Philippine legislation has helped in this aspect with laws like the “Early Childhood Care and Development (ECCD) Law” in 2000\(^1\) establishing the National Coordinating Council for the Welfare of Children, and the “Barangay Level Total Protect of Children Act” in 1990\(^2\) requiring all Local Government Units to establish day-care centers in all barangays. The Department of Health has in turn translated its commitment to the mothers and children with programs such as the “Safe Motherhood Program”\(^3\), providing maternal and newborn health services, and “Women’s Health and Safe Motherhood Project”\(^4\) intending to improve the delivery health service access of disadvantaged women.

This country is working in caring for our mothers and their newborns, with Congress strengthening this intent even more through meaningful legislation. The country’s child mortality rate has dropped since the 1990’s\(^5\) and a bill is being passed aiming to improve maternal healthcare in the country. The worry, however, is that focus on healthcare is stuck on the first 1,000 days of the child. Government support for its young citizens is imperative, especially during their formative years, in order for them to grow up into fully-equipped adult citizens.

The proposed bill, as a counterpart to Senator Poe’s in the Senate, aims to provide mandatory PhilHealth coverage for the “Junior Citizens”, or children 0 to 12 years old, and would therefore be automatic members until they reach the age of twelve (12). The bill also allows Junior Citizens\(^6\) to be entitled to benefits such as a twenty

(20) percent discount and exemption from the value-added tax (VAT) on goods and services, including medical and dental health care services and supplies.

This bill aims to ease the financial burden of the parents as the bill aims to provide these benefits to families whose annual income is below PHP 250,000 is especially important to children from disadvantaged areas, where access to healthcare services is low or limited to private institutions. This benefit given to the Junior Citizens extends to professional fees of physicians in private hospitals and of home health care service providers, as well as funeral and burial services in the unfortunate death of the Junior Citizen. Admission charges to leisure and amusement sites, such as movie houses and concert halls are also taken into consideration in this proposed bill.

In view of the foregoing, the approval of this bill is earnestly sought.

LUIS RAYMUND “LRAY” F. VILLAFUERTE, JR.
AN ACT
GRANTING BENEFITS AND PRIVILEGES TO JUNIOR CITIZENS

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Philippines in Congress assembled:

SECTION 1. Short Title. – This Act shall be known as the “Junior Citizens Act of 2017.”

SECTION 2. Declaration of Policies and Objectives. – As provided in the Constitution of the Republic of the Philippines, it is declared the policy of the State to promote a just and dynamic social order that will ensure the prosperity and independence of the nation and free the people from poverty through policies that provide adequate social services, promote full employment, a rising standard of living and an improved quality of life. In the Declaration of Principles and State Policies in Sections 10 and 11, Article II, it is further declared that the State shall provide social justice in all phases of national development and that the State values the dignity of every human person and guarantees full respect for human rights.

The child is one of the most important assets of the nation. Every effort should be exerted to promote the child’s welfare and enhance his/her opportunities for a useful and happy life.
All children shall be entitled to the rights, in addition to all their existing rights, herein set forth without distinction as to legitimacy or illegitimacy, sex, religion, political antecedents, and other factors.
