EXPLANATORY NOTE

This bill seeks to establish a Crematorium for every Legislative District in the country.

Cremation is the process of combustion, vaporization and oxidation of dead bodies into ashes. Such process may be done as a funeral or post-funeral rite, as an alternative to burial in cemeteries. Cremated remains, or “cremains,” are not considered as health risks, and may either be stored in a columbarium, scattered in various locations, or kept in an urn on the house of the surviving family.

In recent years, more Filipinos are opting for cremation instead of burial for their deceased loved ones due to a number of financial and practical reasons. Cremation is generally cheaper than the traditional burial rite. In a 2015 data, a memorial lot costs at least PhP 70,000, with an additional amount of at least PhP 25,000 for the internment including the casket. In addition, public cemeteries require renewal fees which could lead to disposal of the remains if the surviving family defaults on payment. The cremation process costs approximately PhP 25,000, with the optional niche costing between PhP 35,000 to 50,000. However, such niches are designed to hold numerous urns, still making it affordable in comparison.

Pursuant to Sec. 11, Art. XIII of the 1987 Constitution, the State is mandated to make health services available to all people at affordable cost.

This bill seeks for the uniform distribution of Crematories nationwide so that cremation services will be more accessible even for those who are living in remote municipalities. This bill also provides for a socialized fee structure to help indigent and marginalized families to avail of free cremation services while sparing them of expenses for burial land and casket. With subsidized cremation costs, the government can ensure the affordable and accessible burial services for our people. Suffice it to state, this is a social justice measure wherein the poor and marginalized will also be given equal access to social services even until their deaths.

Other direct effects of foregoing traditional burial would be to relieve future congestion during the annual All Saints’ and All Souls’ days, and even during funeral processions. With a projected increase of deaths, congestion of our burial lands will get worse so much so that they are no longer conducive to the living and its dead residents. Moreover, this measure will also channel the use of our lands to more productive use such as for agricultural, residential and industrial purposes and/or uses. Finally, cremation is more environmentally friendly compared to traditional burial which could introduce contaminants from the coffin and the body, further ensuring the protection of the environment as well as public health, as mandated by Sec. 15 and 16 of Art. II of the 1987 Constitution.

In concurrence with the new administration’s pro-poor and environment protection policies, the swift passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
