The prevention and control of diseases that threaten Filipinos today depend primarily on the proper implementation of environmental sanitation. Thus, the role of sanitary inspectors or sanitarians is very much indispensable. Since their job is more preventive rather than curative, and they are the first contact persons in the community, they occupy key positions in the delivery of health care by the Department of Health.

Sanitarians mingle with the people and are undoubtedly in a position to mold their sanitary habits and practices. Moreover, they translate sanitary principles and theories into everyday usage, disseminate and explain health rules and arrest the health hazards and dangers faced by the community.

However, many sanitarians are not equipped with the knowledge and skills necessary to effectively and efficiently carry out the duties and responsibilities attendant to their jobs. Further, no particular agency of the government is tasked to regulate the practice of sanitation and hygiene in the country and to control or prevent unethical practices and substandard services, thereby putting at greater jeopardy the health of the public.

This bill therefore seeks to give due acknowledgment to the efforts of sanitarians, and to institute mechanisms to guarantee the fitness of the individuals entrusted with the prime duty of ensuring the health and welfare of the Filipinos by professionalizing the practice of sanitation and hygiene.

With the aim of rendering quality service, ensuring the health of the public and providing an elevated social and professional status to sanitarians, approval of this bill is earnestly sought.
