EXPLANATORY NOTE

It is the intention of this measure to commensurately reward the services of barangay officials especially the barangay tanods as they discharge their duties and responsibilities as "frontliners" in their respective communities. To this end, they shall be given additional financial assistance and similar other benefits.

Truth to tell, barangay tanods do not receive any compensation for the services they extend with dedication and zeal to the people of the barangay except mere insurance benefits. Similarly, barangay officials receive only a meager allowance of P1,000 as provided for under R.A. 7160 to support their needs.

Altruistically, these barangay officials and barangay tanods perform their tasks whether or not they get allowances. Therefore, it is only fitting and proper that they – barangay officials and barangy tanods – be given additional benefits and incentives.

Approval of this measure is thus most urgently sought.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Basic social and government services depend largely on the role of barangay officials who are at the forefront of public service and their time, energy, and resources are channelled to resolve the everyday concerns of barangay folks. Said officials dedicate their life’s work to ensure that all those who walk into their offices to bring before them their domestic and social issues are well attended to. They are the bridges that gap household and neighborhood misunderstandings. They make possible the amicable settlement of community members having disputes with one another. They cheer up and bring comfort to those afflicted by misfortunes.

The bill is underpinned by the fact that there are opportunity costs when barangay officials perform their duties and responsibilities that go beyond the call of their duties in order to bring to their constituents the highest form of service that they call for.

An increase on the allowance of barangay officials would just be a small gesture on the part of the government to recognize their essential role as agents of government to effect national development.

The immediate passage of this bill is most fervently prayed for.
