AN ACT INSTITUTING REFORMS TO PROMOTE AND PROTECT THE ECONOMIC, SOCIAL, POLITICAL RIGHTS AND WELL BEING OF BARANGAY HEALTH WORKERS TOWARDS QUALITY HEALTH SERVICES DELIVERY AND APPROPRIATING FUNDS THEREFOR

Be it enacted by the Senate and the House of Representatives of the Philippines in Congress assembled:

The Constitution of the World Health Organization states that “the enjoyment of the highest attainable standard of health is one of the fundamental rights of every human being without distinction of race, religion, political belief, economic or social condition”. Access to healthcare is considered a human right, such that everyone has the right to the highest attainable standard of physical and mental health, which includes access to all medical services, sanitation, adequate food, decent housing, healthy working conditions, and a clean environment.

Article II, Section 15 of the 1987 Constitution states, "The state shall protect ... the right to health of the people and instill health consciousness among them. The State recognizes that quality healthcare services promote social justice in all phases of national development. It protects and promote the right to health of the people and provides conditions of health empowerment, where each individual has access to information and services that will bring about health and wellbeing. Primary Health Care (PHC) is recognized as the major strategy towards health empowerment, emphasizing the need to provide accessible, available and affordable quality health services through community based- participatory strategies

Primary health care is coursed through barangay health workers. A barangay health worker (BHW) is a person who has undergone training programs under any accredited government and non-government organization and who voluntarily renders primary health care services in the community after having been accredited to function as such by the local health board in accordance with the guidelines promulgated by the Department of Health.

Under the Implementing Rules and Regulations (IRR) of Republic Act No. 7883 otherwise known as, The Barangay Health Workers’ Benefits and Incentives Act of 1995, barangay health workers are only entitled to certain benefits and incentives but not entitled to fixed salaries according to the Salary Standardization Law. This Bill aims to upgrade the status of BHWs as a government worker with rights to the basic compensation package offered civilian government personnel.

It will be to the best interests of the people that the health workers in charge of their needs are properly trained, adequately equipped, and fairly compensated because such condition will improve the delivery of health services, specially to the marginalized areas which are remote from the centers of tertiary and secondary hospitals.

The selfless heroism of over 380,000 BHWs, who are predominantly women, acting as first responders in the delivery of health services to the grassroots population must be given due recognition, compensation and compensation.

In view of the foregoing, the expeditious passage of this bill is earnestly sought.

Approved.
