This bill was originally introduced as House Bill No. 4199 during the Fourteenth Congress where it was approved by the House of Representatives and transmitted to the Senate. It was re-filed during the 15th Congress as House Bill No. 603 where it was again approved by the Committee on Basic Education and Culture and consolidated into House Bill No. 465, approved on 2nd reading, approved on 3rd reading and was transmitted to the Senate where it was not acted upon. It was re-filed during the 16th Congress where it was again approved by the House of Representatives. During the 17th Congress, it was approved by the House of Representatives again.

The Constitution declares that it is a policy of the state to inculcate in the youth patriotism and nationalism. One simple way to inculcate nationalism and patriotism not just to the youth but to Filipinos of all ages is to emphasize the importance of the saluting the national flag and the singing of the Philippine National Anthem.

The national flag is the symbol of the country while the national anthem embodies and expresses the aspirations, dreams, ideals, longings, commitment and determination, nationalism and patriotism, sentiment and spirit of the people. The Supreme Court has also held that the flag is an emblem of national sovereignty, of national unity and cohesion and of freedom and liberty which it and the Constitution guarantee and protect.

Republic Act No. 8491 otherwise known as the Flag and Heraldic Code of the Philippines states that reverence and respect shall at all times be accorded the flag, the anthem, and other national symbols which embody the national ideals and which express the principles of sovereignty and national solidarity. This law imposes on violators a penalty of fine of P5, 000.00 to P20, 000.00 or imprisonment of one year or both. However, despite the existence of such law, many Filipinos do not accord the respect due our Philippine Flag and National Anthem. This violation usually happens in cinemas where moviegoers do not even stand up when the national anthem is being played.

In the column Opinion of the Philippine Daily Inquirer, May 12, 2008. Jet Hernandez wrote:

"I've noticed that some moviegoers at SM cinemas don't show respect to the Philippine National Anthem while it's being played. In one instance, I called the attention of a moviegoer who remained sitting and eating with his wife and kid as the anthem was "video-played." He just snapped back, "How can I stand, I'm eating."

"The singing of our national anthem should be treated as a sacred and solemn act, not unlike the singing of a prayer to God. "Minus all the economic and political b.s. in the country, the singing of the Philippine National Anthem should provide the only sane moment that reminds a Filipino that he or she is still a Filipino, and everyone else in this country that he or she is still in the Philippines."
"Kaya kung ayaw mong magbigay-pugay sa pambansang awit, get out of the Philippines. This country is not for you."

This article was cited by Conrado de Quiros in his column in Philippine Daily Inquirer, of even date, to wit:

"That was a nice point Jet Hernandez made in his letter last Monday. He is dismayed, he said, that many Filipinos do not stand up when the National Anthem is played. While in one of the SM cinemas at one time, he noticed a family who kept to their seats when the Anthem was played. He reproached the man, who snapped back, "How can I stand when I'm eating?"

"In fact, says Hernandez, there is such a thing as a Flag and Heraldic Code of the Philippines that imposes a fine of P5,000-P20,000 on violators. He demands that establishments like SM enforce that law and has several suggestions on it. I leave the reader to look it up himself (Opinion, May 12)."

He emphasized Jet Hernandez's statement that minus all the economic and political b.s. in this country, the singing of the Philippine National Anthem should provide the only sane moment that reminds a Filipino that he or she is still a Filipino.

He further states:

"I myself didn't know there was such a law - you learn something every day - and I'm glad we do. I share Hernandez's sentiments wholeheartedly. Any practice or ritual that reminds us of something we keep forgetting, probably because we want to, which is our national identity, is wroth enforcing, apart from retaining."

In view of the foregoing, this bill seeks to increase the penalties for disrespectful conduct during the playing of the Philippine National Anthem.

Wherefore, the passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
