According to Benjamin Franklin "In free governments, the rulers are the servants, and the people their superiors...For the former to return among the latter does not degrade, but promote them". Basically, what this means is that when a person knows they s/he must return to his ordinary life, they will consider more the effects of the programs they push for and not only think of how to stay in the position they are in.

This is usually the argument in favor of term-limits.

However, while this may be true, there are indeed some exceptions who deserve to stay longer because of the exemplary job that they are doing and to finish what they started.

Also, in most cases, the job is very complicated and who is to be appointed will lead to far reaching effects. A perfect example is the finance sector of the country. Many foreign investors have been saying that when it comes to maintaining investor confidence in the country, the key to keeping them in the country (and attracting new ones) is having reputable names as finance chief and BSP Governor (Biz Buzz, Philippine Daily Inquirer, June 15, 2015)

In view of the same, immediate passage of this bill which will extend the term of the members of the Monetary Board is earnestly requested.
