EXPLANATORY NOTE

The Philippine Constitution expressly provides that: "The State shall pursue a trade policy that serves the general welfare and utilizes all forms and arrangements of exchange on the basis of equality and reciprocity."¹

In recognition of the above-stated policy on national economy, the Consumer Act of the Philippines (Republic Act No. 7394) was enacted in 1992. However, since then, there has been no amendment of the said law in order to conform with the current trends in the market, especially considering the advent of information and communications technology (ICT) in the modern world. Furthermore, the penalties and sanctions provided in the law are no longer adequate as a deterrent against unscrupulous, deceitful, and dishonest merchants.

Accordingly, this bill endeavors for the integration and utilization of ICT in commerce, and the modification of the administrative and penal provisions of the law in order to effectively enforce strong consumer protection nationwide.

Thus, the immediate passage of this bill is collectively sought.
