AN ACT STRENGTHENING THE WORKERS’ RIGHT TO SECURITY OF TENURE, AMENDING FOR THE PURPOSE PRESIDENTIAL DECREES NO 442, AS AMENDED, OTHERWISE KNOWN AS THE LABOR CODE OF THE PHILIPPINES

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The 1987 Constitution upholds the full protection to labor. Section 3 of Article XIII states that “the State shall afford full protection to labor, local and overseas, organized and unorganized, and promote full employment and equality of employment opportunities for all.” Likewise, all workers “shall be entitled to security of tenure, humane conditions of work, and a living wage.”

President Rodrigo Duterte vowed to stop the practice of “endo” or labor contractualization. Yet, more than three (3) years into the Duterte presidency, labor contractualization has worsened and become even more widespread, both in the private and public sectors.

On July 26, 2019, President Duterte even vetoed Senate Bill No. 1826 and House Bill 6908 or the Security of Tenure and End Endo Bill -- to the approval of capitalists, but, with the utter dismay of labor groups.

While the President’s veto message stated his supposed “firm commitment to protect the workers’ right to security of tenure”, the veto reflected his true bias and priority of business and capitalists’ interests over and above workers’ rights and welfare.

President Duterte said that “legitimate job contracting should be allowed”, businesses “allowed to determine whether they should outsource certain activities or not”... “regardless of whether this is directly related to their business”. He said that “sweeping expansion of the definition of labor only contracting destroys the delicate balance” between the interest of labor and management “and will place capital and management at an impossibly difficult predicament”.

President Duterte must have forgotten that the vetoed bill was workers’ security of tenure bill, not a security of business bill. Contractualization persisted because present laws and regulations allowed job contracting and businesses were able to get around the prohibited labor-only contracting. By allowing business to determine which work is up for contractualization, President Duterte is negating the Labor Code definition of regular work as “desirable or necessary in the business or trade” and thus opens up all work and positions for contractualization.
Existing rules and regulations are ineffective in curbing contractualization, and have in fact only further promoted and legitimized contractual employment schemes. In particular, the Department of Labor and Employment Department Order 174-17 issued on March 16, 2017 and Executive Order No 51 signed on May 1, 2018, merely repeated what were provided under previous rules on prohibition of labor-only contracting and allowed job contracting.

According to IBON Databank, there are some 8.5 million non-regular workers in private companies and more than 800,000 non-regular workers in government agencies. Construction, real estate and manufacturing have the most non-regular workers, where 7 out of 10 workers, 5 out of 10 workers, and 4 out of 10 workers, respectively, are non-regular or agency-hired.

According to labor group Kilusang Mayo Uno the number of contractual workers exceed 25 million or 60% of the total employed.

Labor contractualization blatantly violates the worker’s right to security of tenure. Many contractual workers like in the case of Peerless Manufacturing Corporation (PEPMACO), Nutri Asia, Sumifru and Zagu, workers have worked for as long as 12 years and were performing work that are desirable and necessary in the business, yet were never regularized.

Aside from having no security of tenure, contractual workers have no or lower benefits, no social insurance protection, no right to self-organization, no promotion opportunities, have higher withholding taxes, and, become targets of discrimination at work.

In general, contractualization is aimed at pressing down workers’ wages and benefits while increasing more the capitalists' profits.

In particular, it is aimed at the following: 1) weakening trade unionism through the reduction of the traditional base of trade unions which are permanent workers; 2) systematic and efficient co-opting of workers into subscribing to an ideology that attacks workers' organization and unionism (employment vs. union mentality); 3) depriving workers of benefits and wages that are due to regular workers and the possibility of improving their working conditions through unionism and collective bargaining and; 4) allowing capitalists to earn maximum profits and lessen the impact of economic crisis by constant adjustments in current and long-term production costs through wage reduction and elimination of workers’ benefits from long-term employment.

With this reality, the State must determinedly protect and uphold workers’ rights to decent and long-term employment. The challenge lies with Congress to uphold the people’s rights and interests by passing a law that will truly protect workers’ right to security of tenure, declare all forms of contractual employment as illegal and penalize those who will continue to carry out this anti-worker scheme.

In view of the foregoing, the passage of this bill is earnestly sought.

of this Code, to prevent any violation or circumvention of any provision of this Code.

There is "labor-only" contracting where the person supplying workers to an employer does
