AN ACT
PROTECTING THE RIGHTS OF REFUGEES AND STATELESS PERSONS, ESTABLISHING THE REFUGEES AND STATELESS PERSONS PROTECTION BOARD, AND FOR OTHER PURPOSES

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The United Nations (UN) defines "refugee" as "any person who: owing to a well-founded fear of being persecuted for reasons of race, religion, nationality, membership of a particular social group, or political opinion, is outside the country of his nationality, and is unable to or, owing to such fear, is unwilling to avail himself of the protection of that country."

Refugees, as well as domestic and international rules and international rules and laws relating to their welfare, security, and treatment, has become an unignorable reality facing the world today. In different parts of the world, large groups of people are forced to leave their home countries because of war, human rights violations, underdevelopment, climate change and natural disasters in search of sustainable and safer places to start better lives.

A "stateless person" is someone who is not considered as a national by any state under the operation of its law. There are at least 10 million people who are denied nationality around the world today, according to estimates by the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNCHCR).

The Philippines is a party to the 1951 UN Convention to the Status of Refugees, the 1967 protocol, and the 1954 UN Convention relating to the Status of Stateless Persons. The Philippine Immigration Act of 1940 and the Administrative Code of the Philippines of 1987 empowered the Bureau of Immigration to administer and enforce "immigration, citizenship and alien admission and registration laws".
Under Executive Order No. 304, dated 31 August 1987, President Corazon Aquino authorized the Task Force on Refugee Assistance and Administration, and the Department of Foreign Affairs to respectively issue identity papers and travel documents to refugees and stateless persons staying in the Philippines. Under DOJ Circular No. 58, Series of 2012, as then Secretary of the Department of Justice, I set up the Refugees and Stateless Persons Protection Unit (RSPPU) in the Legal Staff of the DOJ.

However, the Philippines still does not have a law that sets the criteria and fixes the procedure in determining the status of refugees and stateless persons, and their eligibility for protection in our country. There is no central authority on all matters pertaining to such status determination. In our consultations with experts, current legal and administrative systems, we have concluded that there is a need to enact a law to establish that central authority and institutionalize the status determination procedure for refugees and stateless persons.

This bill seeks to strengthen and promote the rights of refugees and stateless persons in the Philippines: to create the Refugees and Stateless Persons Protection Board as the central authority in matters relating to the determination of status, and eligibility to avail of protection, as refugees and stateless persons; and to strengthen the government’s cooperation and coordination with the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), the Commission on Human Rights (CHR) and other relevant institutions and agencies.

Thus, the approval of this bill is earnestly sought.
