HOUSE BILL NO. 3624

INTRODUCED BY REPRESENTATIVE ALFRED VARGAS

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Public service is among the primary mandates of the government. This is considered the visible side of and the most common way to experience governance. As such, it is an important responsibility of the State to ensure that public services are delivered efficiently to those who need it. However, ordinary citizens are often faced with public notices or instructions written in a confusing manner or in a language they are not fluent in. This cause delay and additional costs in transacting with the government. Worse, citizens may not be able to fully understand and avail of the public services intended for them.

This bill thus seeks to address these problems in the public services of national agencies and local government units. First, it would mandate the use of plain language in all their communications and in the implementation of their basic functions, mandates, and services. Second, it shall require the attachment of versions of its public notices, instruction, and issuances in the language or dialect predominantly used in the locality or specifically used by the intended community.

This measure would greatly improve the effective delivery of public services to those who need it and aids the government in achieving its mandate. For example, the Department of Revenue of Revenue in Washington D.C., U.S.A. launched in 2003 an initiative wherein customer letters were rewritten into plain language. It resulted in an additional $5 million dollar increase in taxes collected because of the use of clearer directions and more easily understood forms.

The use of plain language and translations in public services ensures that instructions and notices are communicated in the shortest time possible and most, if not all, of the intended beneficiaries or clients are able to understand such. Moreover, this promotes transparency and trust in the government by providing information of public interest which any citizen can assess and evaluate.

In view of the foregoing, the immediate passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
