Article III, section 1 of the Constitution states that no person shall be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law, nor shall any person be denied the equal protection of the laws. Further, section 14 (1) provides that no person shall be held to answer for a criminal offense without due process of law.

However, there are numerous cases when the Supreme Court, upon review, reversed the decisions of the lower courts and decided to acquit the convict. The Supreme Court’s reversal of the ruling of the lower court consequently means that a person not otherwise guilty of the crime for which he or she was charged, had been incarcerated for a crime he or she did not commit.

This bill seeks to compensate a person wrongfully convicted of a crime in order to indemnify him or her for the loss, injury and damage brought about by such wrongful conviction. Under this bill, a person wrongfully convicted of a crime, after being qualified as such as determined by the appropriate court, shall be entitled to the payment of compensation in an amount not exceeding twice the amount of the claimant’s income in the year prior to his incarceration or to one hundred thousand pesos for each year of incarceration, whichever is greater.

In view of the foregoing, early passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
Introducing bill.
