EIGHTEENTH CONGRESS
First Regular Session

House Bill No. 4492

Introduced by Representative Lord Allan Jay Q. Velasco

EXEMPLARY NOTE

The State recognizes the role of the youth in nation-building, and also the importance of sports in the betterment of lives of Filipinos, as enshrined in Sections 13 and 17 of Article II of the 1987 Constitution of the Philippines, to wit:

Section 13. The State recognizes the vital role of the youth in nation-building and shall promote and protect their physical, moral, spiritual, intellectual, and social well-being. It shall inculcate in the youth patriotism and nationalism, and encourage their involvement in public and civic affairs.

Section 17. The State shall give priority to education, science and technology, arts, culture, and sports to foster patriotism and nationalism, accelerate social progress, and promote total human liberation and development.

Grassroots development of sports in the country, however, is woefully lacking. The country, time and again, erupts in unison to celebrate the sports achievements of our homegrown athletes who brought home laurels for the Philippines despite the lack of a sustained sports development program. Our country is home to world champions in boxing, bowling, swimming, shooting, and wushu, among others. The present public and private school educational system provide inadequate support to the gifted student-athlete. Public school student athletes may pursue their passion only through the Palarong Pambansa or the Philippine National Games that is, if they are talented enough to be recruited. In terms of curriculum, physical education (PE) is consolidated with music, arts, and health in just one academic subject that translates to less time and focus devoted to sports. While the Department of Education has identified one high school in each region as schools with a Special Program in Sports (SPS), there is no clear training program and selection criteria in place in public schools.

On the other hand, the private school system provides more opportunities for exposure in sporting activities not only because PE is treated as a separate academic subject, but also because of the active development of varsity teams that participate in inter-school leagues across the country. However, it is not uncommon for student-athletes in private schools to experience academic difficulties due to the lack of time to study and complete projects.

Thus, the time is ripe to discover and nurture these athletes and other potentially gifted athletes and provide adequate support for them by endowing them with sustained training and support starting at the high school level. The development of grassroots sports in the country is long overdue. In order to be able to compete internationally on a sustained level in different sports, a basic education program is needed that is focused and specialized for the youth who have the gifts and potential.

This bill aims to establish and maintain a high school for student-athletes. The Philippine High School for Sports (PHSS) will offer, on a scholarship basis, a secondary course with special emphasis on developing the athletic skills of the students through subjects pertaining to physical education and sports development. This will enable student-athletes to gain quality secondary education while ensuring opportunities for their continued training, exposure, and participation in relevant sports competitions. Moreover, the measure will help the Philippine Sports Commission (PSC) in training and developing future world-class national athletes, who will have improved training, better equipment, and adequate support because of their holistic development within PHSS. The PHSS system also aims to provide the student-athletes with skills, which will make them employable immediately after high school.

For the foregoing reasons, the immediate passage of this measure is sought.
