AN ACT
PROVIDING FOR A MAGNA CARTA FOR THE ROAD TRANSPORTATION SECTOR

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The Philippine Constitution mandates the protection and enhancement of the right of all people to human dignity and the reduction of social and economic inequities. The State also guarantees the rights of all sectors, including those in the road transportation industry, to participate in the policy and decision-making processes affecting their rights and benefits as provided by law.

Transportation provides the physical link in every economic and social activity. It is therefore legitimate and indispensable to safeguard an industry that is vital to economic growth and social development. It plays a crucial role in everyone’s life as it meets the demand for the sustainable mobility of both people and goods.¹

For the past four decades, the perennial problems of the road transportation industry remain unsolved. The high cost of fuel, abusive traffic law enforcers, problems in the issuance of franchise of public utility vehicles, proliferation of colorum vehicles, poor road conditions, traffic congestion, and air pollution immensely affect the road transportation sector.

This measure aims to provide for the institutionalization of the participatory mechanisms for the road transportation sector by including at least one representative from the sector in the governing boards of government instrumentalities in the national and local level.

As a piece of legislation that intends to empower and comprehensively protect the rights of the road transportation sector, particularly the road transportation workers, the following provisions are included:

a) Creation of a Road Incident Complaints and Investigation Office;
b) Free legal assistance, counseling and representation for indigent members of the road transportation sector; and
c) Mandatory enrollment of road transportation workers in institutions providing employee benefits such as Social Security System, Philhealth and Pag-IBIG Fund.

Likewise, the proposed legislation aims to promote and develop the road transportation sector by providing short-course trainings to be designed and conducted by the Technical Education and Skills Development Authority. The bill requires the construction of a free common transportation terminal facilities and creation of a One-Stop Transportation Services Office as well as the establishment of a Road Transportation Surety Fund Program.

With the foregoing considered, immediate approval of this bill is requested.
