AN ACT
INSTITUTING INCOME TAX REFORM FOR CORPORATE TAXPAYERS, AMENDING FOR THIS PURPOSE SECTIONS 27(A) AND 28 OF THE NATIONAL INTERNAL REVENUE CODE OF 1997, AS AMENDED

EXPLANATORY NOTE

One of the inherent powers of the State is the power of taxation. However, there are limitations on the exercise of such power. Section 28, Article VI of the 1987 Philippine Constitution provides that the rule of taxation shall be uniform and equitable and that Congress shall evolve a progressive system of taxation.

Jurisprudence is replete with cases explaining that uniformity of taxation and the equal protection clause require that all subjects or objects of taxation similarly situated are to be treated alike both in privileges and liabilities. A progressive system of taxation as well as the concept of equity in taxation suggests that the tax rates should be based on the taxpayer’s ability to pay. Therefore, a tax system is progressive when the tax rate increases as the tax base increases.

This bill seeks to amend Sections 27(A) and 28 of the NIRC, as amended, to replace the unitary or single income tax rate with a graduated income tax schedule for corporate taxpayers similar to those provided for the individual taxpayers. The basis for adopting this tax system is to align income taxation for corporations with the constitutional mandate of a progressive system of taxation and the rule on uniform and equitable taxation.
Under the Revised Corporation Code, a duly organized corporation is clothed with a personality separate and distinct from the persons composing it. Therefore, being a juridical person, a corporation is recognized by law as a person similar to a natural person. Thus, a corporation can sue and be sued in its corporate name, and it can also purchase, receive, take or grant, hold, convey, sell, lease, pledge, mortgage and otherwise deal with real and personal property. Therefore, it is but proper that for purposes of taxation, a corporation should be treated like an individual. Like an individual taxpayer, a corporate taxpayer should be afforded a system of income taxation based on its ability to pay.

Also, this bill seeks to lower the corporate income tax rate from the current unitary or single income tax rate of 30% with graduated rates ranging from 5% to 25%. In the ASEAN Region, the average corporate income tax rate is at 22.4%. Among the ASEAN-member countries, the Philippines has the highest corporate income tax rate at 30% while Singapore has the lowest rate at 17%. This would help the country in becoming more attractive to foreign direct investments.

It is noteworthy that this proposed measure seeks to provide a uniform graduated income tax schedule for individual and corporate taxpayers. The intent is to simplify income taxation for all taxpayers and to make the same easier to comprehend. A tax is a burden on the taxpayer, it being an enforced proportional contribution to finance the operation of the government and other public needs. To ease the burden, a simplified system for the payment of taxes should be provided.

In view of the foregoing, immediate approval of this bill is earnestly sought.
