AN ACT
ENSURING THE EMPLOYEES’ RIGHT TO THEIR WAGES, INCLUDING WAGE-RELATED SOCIAL SECURITY AND WELFARE BENEFITS, AMENDING FOR THE PURPOSE PRESIDENTIAL DECREE NO. 442, AS AMENDED, OTHERWISE KNOWN AS THE LABOR CODE OF THE PHILIPPINES

EXPLANATORY NOTE:

This bill seeks to curb the illegal practice of private sector employers of non-compliance with the proper and appropriate payment of minimum wage to their workers.

It is stated in the Constitution that the State is mandated to protect the rights of laborers and promote their welfare. Among the primary entitlements of a worker should be afforded is his monthly income, which he will be needing to provide for his day-to-day family and personal expenditures.

When it comes to wages, the Regional Tripartite Wages and Productivity Board (or the Regional Wage Boards) imposes the minimum wage in their respective regions and employees in the Philippines must be paid no less than the specified rates. In the case of NCR, for instance, the minimum wage is Php 537.00 per day.
Aside from wages, basic entitlements of employees also include, among others, the right to receive wage-related benefits through the coverage under the Social Security System, Philippine Health Insurance Corporation, and the Home Development Mutual Fund (also known as PAG-IBIG Fund). These wage-related benefits are also essential to ensure the social and economic security of workers.

Failure to pay the required minimum wage entails penalties. However, the current penalties are not strong enough to completely stop these unjust and unreasonable conditions suffered by workers.

Workers are the “company’s greatest asset”, according to businesswoman Anne Mulcahy, and these assets should receive the right wages and benefits they so deserve. This bill seeks to increase the penalties so as to impose stricter guidelines for the employers. In doing so, this could serve as a deterrent to the non-compliance of the payment of prescribed minimum wage rates by unjust employers.

The approval of this bill is earnestly sought.
