Since 1954, the year when the first victim of hazing was reported, there have been at least 40 deaths caused by hazing. These 40 deaths are senseless and should have never happened. The victims had bright futures ahead of them. However, due to barbaric "traditions", lives were unnecessarily taken and dreams died with the victims.

Lenny Villa was one of those who died because of hazing. He died February 10, 1991. His death was one of the first that drew national attention which eventually led to the passage of Republic Act No. 8049 or the Anti-hazing Act of 1995. The law was aimed at preventing hazing. Unfortunately, it did not.

There were more deaths that followed. Horacio "Atio" Castillo III, a 22-year-old University of Santo Tomas (UST) law freshman was found on September 17, 2017 lying on a sidewalk in Tondo. He was later declared dead in Chinese General Hospital. His death was also because of hazing. Atio’s death sparked moves to amend the Anti-Hazing Law of 1995. As a result, Republic 11053 or the Anti-Hazing Act of 2018 was passed which strengthened the old law.

Despite this new law, hazing still continued which, just recently, caused the death of Darwin Dormitorio who hails from Cagayan de Oro, this Representation’s hometown. This shows that there is need to further educate and remind the people on the realities of hazing and the provisions of the Anti-Hazing Act of 2018. We have to stop hazing once and for all.

In view of the foregoing, immediate approval of this measure is earnestly requested.
