Republic of the Philippines
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Quezon City

EIGHTEENTH CONGRESS
First Regular Session

HOUSE BILL NO. 5430

Introduced by HON. WILTON TAN KHO

Explanatory Note

In a recently written article of Asia section of the print edition under the headline "Meet me in Luneta" of The Economist, an account of our Filipino seafarers appeared, and a section of which is hereby cited:

Parts of the Philippine archipelago have sent out seafarers since long before Spanish galleons plied between Manila and Acapulco. Modern-day Filipino mariners came to prominence with the oil crises of the 1970s, when the world’s shipping lines could no longer afford Western crews. Today, more than nine-tenths of global trade (by weight) is carried by sea, on some 100,000 merchant vessels drawing on a pool of 1.2m mariners. Of these, well over a quarter, 378,000, are Filipinos—by far the biggest number by country of origin. On any day, perhaps 250,000 Filipino mariners are at sea. If they stayed at home, the world economy would convulse. (italics made by the undersigned)

In 1996, it was estimated that there were more than 250,000 Filipino seafarers, and in 2013, that number has been estimated to have increased to about 460,000 to as high as 700,000. Also, with the recognition that Filipinos continues to have the most number of seafarers employed seamen in various countries worldwide---far more than any other nationality and that no other nation crews so many commercial ships---it is claimed that it is the Filipino seafarer who powers the global economy. It is also worthy to mention that since the early 1970s up to the present, the Filipino seafarer has remained the international shipping industry’s mariners of choice..

Moreover, of the estimated more than 10m OFWs, seafarers are at “the top of the pile”, remitting over six billion dollars annually, more than a fifth of the total amount of OFW remittances in 2018, which hit an all-time high as well, amounting to $32.21 billion.(1.642 billion Php), leading some to claim that “[t]he Filipino seafarer is the economic powerhouse of the rural areas of this country.”
On August 2013, the Philippines ratified the Maritime Labor Convention (MLC), an international treaty that embodied recent maritime labor standards to promote decent working and living conditions of seafarers on board a vessel as well as medical care and other welfare measures to strengthen health, labor and social protection for all seafarers.

In accordance with our ratification of the MLC, we have committed our country to enact a national policy to comply with the standards set by the International Maritime Organization. Needless to stress, the Philippines has always supported international conventions guaranteeing protection to our migrant workers.

Verily, consistent with the constitutional mandates that Congress shall give highest priority to the enactment of measures that protect and enhance the right of all the people to human dignity, and that the State shall afford full protection to labor, local and overseas, organized and unorganized, and promote full employment opportunities for all, this bill is being proposed for the benefit of our seafarers, adopting the version that was approved in the House of Representatives, starting from the 15th Congress up to the 17th Congress when it was passed again on third reading.

In view of the foregoing, the passage of this proposed legislation into law is ardently sought.

HON. WILTON TAN KHO
