EXPLANATORY NOTE

Article XIV, Section 1 of the 1987 Philippine Constitution states:

"The State shall protect and promote the right of all citizens to quality education at all levels and shall take appropriate steps to make such education accessible to all."

Education is the most precious inheritance most Filipino parents can pass on to their children, with the hope that this can help improve their quality of life. With this in mind, Filipino parents sacrifice so much to provide their children quality education.

In 2013, a freshman student who allegedly took her own life two (2) days after she was forced to put her studies on hold because she could not pay her tuition. The said student was forced to file a leave of absence for the second semester, despite her and her parents’ appeal to extend the payment period for her tuition loan.¹

The proposed bill seeks to prohibit private and public higher education institutions (HIES) and technical-vocational schools from enforcing the “No Permit, No Exam” policy which essentially denies students the right to take examinations unless tuition fee payments are updated. This is the right time to strengthen the foundation of this nation. We need to build and nurture a sense of social commitment, nationalism and love for country.

In view of the foregoing, passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
