an act defining, criminalizing, and punishing terrorism, and for other purposes

explanatory note

Terrorism is a complex generational problem; a tangle of social issues that crystalize into acts of violent extremism. In the last few decades, the world has been forced to confront this global threat in its continuously evolving forms. The Philippine legislature’s primary effort in this regard was enacted in 2007, specifically Republic Act No. 9372, or the “Human Security Act of 2007.”

However, in the twelve years since the Human Security Act was enacted, several critical issues with the law have been observed.

Chief among these issues is the lack of an outright definition of terrorism. Instead, the Human Security Act pegs terrorism on the commission of predicate crimes (such as murder or rebellion) that have the effect of sowing and creating a condition of widespread and extraordinary fear and panic among the populace in order to coerce the government to give in to an unlawful demand. Since it is often easier to charge and prosecute a person for committing one of the predicate crimes, the net effect is that there fewer prosecutions for acts of terrorism. In fact, the first conviction for violation of the Human Security Act came only in 2015.

Second, there are provisions in the Human Security Act that are susceptible to abuse. For example, in the event of an actual or imminent terrorist attack, a suspect may be arrested without warrant and detained without charge indefinitely, subject to written approval of any one of the numerous public officers identified by the law. Indefinite detention without charge is inherently problematic. While an actual or imminent terrorist attack is a circumstance that would warrant preventive detention of a suspected terrorist, there are cases where an "imminent" attack has been used to justify detention for years. The most controversial example would be the detention of suspected terrorists by the United States' government in Guantanamo Bay.

Finally, the security and law enforcement sector has found the law to be unwieldy in application, hampering operations with the threat of heavy penalties while also providing little guidance. The proposed revisions to the Human Security Act were led by the security sector in the 17th Congress precisely because of the issues they encountered with the law in practice.

The drafting of this bill was guided by the knowledge that addressing the problem of terrorism does require allowing the law enforcement sector greater flexibility, balanced by clear safeguards against abuse. It cannot be overemphasized that violations of human rights—including social and economic rights—have been shown to increase terrorist activity and recruitment, which is why any anti-terrorism effort must be coupled with long-term solutions to the problem of violent extremism. In the Philippines in particular, where long-running violent insurgencies have only recently begun to wind down, it is important to address the drivers of conflict in order to subvert the efforts of terrorists seeking to profit from the instability.

Addressing the threat that the terrorists of 2019 pose to us now requires a recalibrated response, informed by previous experience here and elsewhere in the world.

For the foregoing reasons, speedy passage of this measure is earnestly sought.

Republic of the Philippines
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Quezon City

EIGHTEENTH CONGRESS
First Regular Session

HOUSE BILL NO. 5622

Introduced by Rep. SOLOMON R. CHUNGALAO

AN ACT DEFINING, CRIMINALIZING, AND PUNISHING TERRORISM, AND FOR OTHER PURPOSES

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Philippines in Congress assembled:

SECTION 1. Short Title. — This Act shall henceforth be known as the "Comprehensive Anti-Terrorism Act of 2019."

SEC. 2. Declaration of Policy. — It is the policy of the State to protect the right to life, liberty, and property of the people from acts of terrorism while upholding the fundamental human rights enshrined in the Constitution and complying with international covenants against terrorism. The State repudiates all acts of terrorism, condemns the justification or glorification of terrorist acts, and shall take action to deny safe haven to terrorists and all those who support them.

Prohibited Acts and Penalties

SEC. 3. Terrorism as Defined by International Law. — Terrorism is an act or threat of violence that constitutes an offense under the following conventions:

(1) Convention for the Suppression of Unlawful Seizure of Aircraft;
(2) Convention for the Suppression of Unlawful Acts against the Safety of Civil Aviation and its Supplemental Protocol;

(3) International Convention against the Taking of Hostages;

(4) Convention for the Suppression of Unlawful Acts against the Safety of Maritime Navigation;

(5) Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of Crimes against Internationally Protected Persons, including Diplomatic Agents;

(6) International Convention for the Suppression of Terrorist Bombings; and

SEC. 4. Other Terrorist Acts. — Any other act not proscribed in the immediately preceding section shall also constitute an act of terrorism when the following criteria are met:

(1) An unlawful act or threat of violence is done; and

(2) The unlawful act or threat is carried out with the goal of spreading public fear in order to compel the Philippine Government, a foreign government, or an international organization to do or refrain from doing an act.

SEC. 5. Planning to Commit Terrorism. — It is hereby prohibited to undertake preparation or planning for a terrorist act. This shall include the gathering of actionable intelligence or information, storing of weapons or explosives, and convening or attending meetings to plan a terrorist act. If the terrorist act is actually carried out, then the offense shall be punished under Sections 3 or 4 of this Act.

SEC. 6. Financing or Providing Material Support for Terrorism. — It is hereby prohibited to finance an individual or organization declared to be a terrorist or a terrorist group. It shall likewise be prohibited to finance any individual, group, or organization that plans, commits, or advocates acts of terrorism with the knowledge that the funds will be used, directly or indirectly, to commit terrorism or any other act prohibited under this Act. Any attempt to finance terrorism as provided in this Section shall also be punishable, subject to the provisions in Section 10.

Financing shall refer to the act of possessing, providing, collecting, using, or making available property, funds, or other financial instruments and services to any person. Financial instruments and services shall include cash, remittances, mobile payments, digital wallets, cryptocurrency, debit cards, hawala, and other payment systems. Financing of terrorism as defined under this Act shall constitute a predicate offense to money laundering as defined Republic Act No. 9160, or the "Anti-Money Laundering Act of 2001," as amended, and subject to its suspicious transaction reporting requirement.

It is also hereby prohibited to knowingly provide material support to terrorists. Material support shall include the provision of lodging, training, expert advice, assistance, safe-houses, false documentation or identification, communications equipment, facilities, weapons, lethal substances, and transportation. For the purposes of this Act, material support shall not include the provision of medical attention or religious instruction.

When financing or providing material support is traced to an organization or juridical person, the individuals found directly responsible for financing or providing material support for terrorism, as well as the corporate officers of the organization or juridical person, shall be made to suffer the penalty of imprisonment while the organization or juridical person shall bear the cost of the fine imposed under Section 10 of this Act.

SEC. 7. Incitement to Terrorism. — It is hereby prohibited to incite others to terrorism. Incitement is any public act or statement whereby a person orders or exhorts the commission of acts of terrorism, regardless of whether a terrorist act is later committed. It is sufficient for the purpose of this provision that the act or statement creates an imminent threat that a terrorist act will be committed.

SEC. 8. Recruitment. — It is hereby prohibited to recruit others into a terrorist organization, as defined in Section 13 of this Act.

SEC. 9. Acting as an Accomplice or Accessory to a Terrorist Act. — Any person who shall, by previous or simultaneous acts, cooperate in the commission of terrorism under Sections 3, 4, and 6 of this Act shall be liable as an accomplice. Any person who profits or assists a terrorist to profit by the effects of the crime, conceals or destroys the body, effects, or instruments of the crime, or harbors, conceals, or assists in the escape of a terrorist shall be liable under this Act as an accessory to terrorism.

SEC. 10. Penalties. — The following penalties shall be imposed for each prohibited act as defined in this Act:

(1) For committing acts of terrorism as defined under Sections 3 and 4 of this Act, the penalty of imprisonment for a period between twenty (20) years and one (1) day to forty (40) years;
(2) For cooperation in the commission of acts of terrorism by previous or simultaneous acts, as defined under Section 9 of this Act, the penalty of fifteen (15) years and one (1) day to twenty (20) years of imprisonment;

(3) For profiting or assisting a terrorist to profit by the effects of the crime, concealing or destroying the body, effects, or instruments of the crime, or by harboring, concealing, or assisting in the escape of a terrorist, as defined under Section 9 of this Act, the penalty of ten (10) years and one (1) day to fifteen (15) years of imprisonment;

(4) For planning to commit an act of terrorism, as defined under Section 5 of this Act, the penalty of ten (10) years and one (1) day to twenty (20) years of imprisonment;

(5) For financing or providing material support for terrorism, as defined under Section 6 of this Act, the penalty of ten (10) years and one (1) day to twenty (20) years of imprisonment and a fine not exceeding five million pesos (PhP5,000,000.00), the proceeds of which shall accrue exclusively to measures aimed at preventing and countering violent extremism;

(6) For incitement to terrorism and recruitment to a terrorist organization, as defined under Sections 7 and 8 of this Act, respectively, the penalty of eight (8) years and one (1) day to twelve (12) years of imprisonment; and

(7) Any public official, law enforcement agent, or other government employee who is found guilty under this Act shall suffer an additional penalty of five (5) years of imprisonment and an additional fine not exceeding five million pesos (PhP5,000,000.00), as well as perpetual absolute disqualification from office and forfeiture of benefits.

In meting out penalties under this Act, courts shall also apply the relevant provisions of Act No. 4103, or the "Indeterminate Sentence Law."

The provisions of this Act shall be without prejudice to the civil or administrative liabilities of the person accused, which may be determined in a separate suit filed by the proper parties.

SEC. 11. Circumstances Affecting Criminal Liability. — If any of the acts proscribed in this Act are committed under any of the circumstances laid out in this provision, criminal liability shall be modified accordingly.

(1) Exempting Circumstances. — The following are exempt from criminal liability:
(a) An insane person as defined by law and jurisprudence;
(b) A person under fifteen years of age;
(c) A person over fifteen years of age and under eighteen, unless he or she has acted with discernment; and
(d) A person acting under the compulsion of irresistible force or an uncontrollable fear of an equal or greater injury.

(2) Mitigating Circumstances. — The following shall be considered mitigating circumstances:

(a) The offender is under eighteen years of age but over fifteen years of age;
(b) The offender voluntarily surrendered to a person of authority or his or her agents;
(c) The offender voluntarily confessed his or her guilt before the court prior to the presentation of evidence by the prosecution; and (d) The offender cooperates with authorities in the prevention, investigation, and prosecution of acts of terrorism.

The appreciation of a mitigating circumstance bars the court from imposing the maximum penalty as provided in Section 10 for the punishable act. The appreciation of two or more mitigating circumstances will merit the minimum penalty as provided in Section 10 for the punishable act.

(3) Aggravating Circumstances. — The following shall be considered aggravating circumstances:

(a) The offender has been previously convicted by final judgment of any other offense involving moral turpitude;
(b) The acts of terrorism were committed with the use of chemical, biological, radiological, or nuclear weapons, agents, or materials;
(c) The act of terrorism is committed in consideration of a price, reward, or promise;
(d) The act of terrorism is committed in a place of worship, medical facility, or school; and
(e) The act proscribed under this act was committed with the aid of persons under fifteen years of age.

The appreciation of an aggravating circumstance will merit the imposition of the maximum penalty as provided in Section 10 for the punishable act.

SEC. 12. Intent as a Defense. — Recognizing that the criminal intent that qualifies an act as terrorism is the intent to spread fear as a means of compelling action or inaction, a different intent shall furnish a defense to charges brought under Section 4 of this Act but shall not bar the prosecution of the offender for another offense.

Terrorist Organizations

SEC. 13. Definition of a Terrorist Organization. — A terrorist organization is any organization, association, or group of persons organized for the purpose of engaging in terrorism or that, although not organized for that purpose, primarily functions in support of terrorism by intentionally conducting training, providing guidance for executing terrorist acts, soliciting funding for terrorism, promoting extremist views and ideologies, and other similar acts.

SEC. 14. Determination of the Nature of an Organization. — The determination of whether an organization is a terrorist organization as defined under this Act shall be done by a specially-designated division of the Court of Appeals, as provided for under Section 28 of this Act.

The Anti-Terrorism Council constituted under Section 23 of this Act must file a petition with the specially-designated division of the Court of Appeals to declare an organization as a terrorist organization. The Court of Appeals shall decide on the petition within thirty (30) days of its filing. The decision of the Court of Appeals may be appealed to the Supreme Court, but the consequences of the classification, as provided in this Act, shall immediately take effect.

SEC. 15. Cancellation of Licenses, Freeze Orders, Forfeiture of Assets. — Once an organization has been declared a terrorist organization, any member of the Anti-Terrorism Council may initiate proceedings to cancel the licenses and registration of an organization under Republic Act No. 11232, or the “Revised Corporation Code of the Philippines”, if any; apply for a freeze order as provided in Section 21 of this Act; and forfeit the organization’s assets in favor of the state. The procedure for civil forfeiture shall be made in accordance with the Anti-Money Laundering Act, as amended, its Revised Implementing Rules and Regulations and the Rules of Procedure promulgated by the Supreme Court.

Surveillance of Suspected Terrorists and Terrorist Organizations

SEC. 16. Surveillance of Suspected Terrorists and Terrorist Organizations. — The provisions of existing laws notwithstanding, law enforcement agencies and their duly-authorized agents may conduct surveillance on suspected terrorists and terrorist organizations under the following conditions and restrictions:

A. Scope of Surveillance Surveillance on suspected terrorists and terrorist organizations shall include fixed surveillance and all types of electronic monitoring. For this purpose, telecommunication companies and internet service providers may be compelled to produce customer information, call and text records, and other data that are deemed relevant by the law enforcement agency making the request for surveillance.

Surveillance shall also contemplate bank inquiries and examination of bank accounts and investments. The Anti-Money Laundering Council (AMLC) is hereby authorized to investigate, upon its own initiative or at the request of the Anti-Terrorism Council, the following:

(1) Any property or funds that are in any way related to financing of terrorism or acts of terrorism; or

(2) Property or funds of any person or persons in relation to whom there is probable cause to believe that such person or persons are committing or attempting or conspiring to commit, or participating in or facilitating the financing of terrorism or acts of terrorism as defined in this Act.

The AMLC may also enlist the assistance of any branch, department, bureau, office, agency or instrumentality of the government, including government-owned and -controlled corporations in undertaking measures to counter the financing of terrorism, which may include the use of its personnel, facilities and resources.

For purposes of this section and notwithstanding the provisions of Republic Act No. 1405, otherwise known as the "Law on Secrecy of Bank Deposits", as amended; Republic Act No. 6426, otherwise known as the "Foreign Currency Deposit Act of the Philippines", as amended; Republic Act
No. 8791, otherwise known as "The General Banking Law of 2000" and other laws, the AMLC is hereby authorized to inquire into or examine deposits and investments with any banking institution or non-bank financial institution and their subsidiaries and affiliates without a court order.

B. Surveillance of Suspected Terrorists

(1) A law enforcement agency or its duly-authorized agents must make an ex parte written request to the specially-designated Regional Trial Court of the judicial region where the person subject to surveillance is located. The written request must detail the need for surveillance of the person involved and all evidence in support of the request.
The request and all its attachments are classified information that shall not be released publicly: Provided, That the persons subject of the surveillance or his or her authorized representative shall be furnished with the request and all its attachments in the event that law enforcement charges the person or takes the person into custody as a result of the surveillance.

(2) The Regional Trial Court must act on the request within fifteen (15) days of its submission. In granting the request, the court may impose additional conditions on the surveillance to be conducted, such as the mode of surveillance and the period during which surveillance shall be permitted, but in no case shall surveillance exceed a period of ninety (90) days.

(3) Should law enforcement determine that the suspected terrorist who was subjected to surveillance is not a terrorist and there is no basis to continue surveillance, all data gathered on the person shall be sealed. The agency or agent involved shall then be required to submit a written report of the surveillance to the Anti-Terrorism Council, which shall determine within a period of thirty (30) days whether there is a need to store the data collected or have it expunged.

(4) Upon expiration of the period for surveillance or desistance on the part of law enforcement, the agency or agent conducting the surveillance must submit a report and all data collected to the Anti-Terrorism Council, along with a recommendation as to whether further action should be taken against the subject of surveillance. The report and the collected data, if any, must be submitted within thirty (30) days of conclusion of the surveillance. The Anti-Terrorism Council shall review the report and collected data, if any, and decide within thirty (30) days from receipt whether to take further action against the subject of surveillance.

(5) Should further surveillance be deemed necessary, the Anti-Terrorism Council shall send a request for an extension to the Regional Trial Court that permitted the original surveillance. The court must act on the request within five (5) days of receipt.
No extension may exceed the period of ninety (90) days, but the Anti-Terrorism Council is not precluded from requesting another extension.

(6) If the Anti-Terrorism Council finds that further action is unwarranted at the time, it shall seal the data collected and determine within a period of one (1) year whether the same should continue to be stored or expunged.

(7) Should the Regional Trial Court deny the request for surveillance, the requesting agency or agent is not precluded from making another request, provided that more evidence in support of the request is submitted.

C. Surveillance of Terrorist Organizations and their Members
Once an organization has been deemed a terrorist organization pursuant to Section 14 of this Act, a law enforcement agency or its duly-authorized agents may conduct surveillance on a duly-classified terrorist organization and its members without need of judicial authority.

All data collected on the terrorist organizations and its members shall be reported to the Anti-Terrorism Council with a recommendation as to what legal action should be taken. The Anti-Terrorism Council shall act on all such reports and recommendations within fifteen (15) days from receipt thereof.

SEC. 17. Creation of a Database. — The Anti-Terrorism Council Program Management Center constituted under Section 24 of this Act is hereby authorized and required to create a database of suspected terrorists and terrorist organizations, terrorist activities, and counter-terrorism operations. The database shall include information gathered from the surveillance authorized under the next preceding section. (1) When a law enforcement agency or agent has sufficient grounds to believe that a person is planning or preparing to commit an act of terrorism, or any act punished under this law, an application to the Anti-Terrorism Council shall be made in order to take the person suspected into preventive custody;

(2) The Anti-Terrorism Council is required to act on the application within twenty-four (24) hours. If the Anti-Terrorism Council approves the application, the person suspected shall be taken into preventive custody for an initial period of three (3) days, during which the Anti-Terrorism Council must file an ex parte petition for commitment before the specially-designated Regional Trial Court. The petition shall contain the approved application and its supporting evidence, as well as any information that arose subsequent to taking the suspect into custody.
(3) The court must act on the petition within three (3) days of receipt. Should the court find that the preventive custody is unwarranted, it shall order the immediate release of the suspect. Should the court find that preventive custody is warranted, it shall issue a commitment order permitting custody of the suspect for up to thirty (30) days, counted from the date that the person was first taken into custody.

(4) Suspects taken into custody under this Section shall be held in special facilities under the custody of the law enforcement agency that applied for the custody. Should the law enforcement agency see the need to extend the preventive custody, it shall file a petition for extension before the same Regional Trial Court that issued the commitment order.

(5) The court shall hold a summary hearing on the petition for extension, where the suspect in custody shall be represented by counsel of choice, after which the court shall decide whether to extend the custody. No extension shall exceed fifteen (15) days, but a law enforcement agency is not precluded from making another application for extension subject to the same judicial process.

(6) Preventive custody shall cease when the suspect is released or formal charges are brought against him or her.

No law enforcement agent shall be liable for taking a person into preventive custody under this Section of this Act, Provided: That the procedure outlined above is strictly followed and any failure to comply therewith shall compel the release of the suspect. Otherwise, the law enforcement agent shall be held liable under Article 125 of the Revised Penal Code.

SEC. 19. Rights of a Person under Preventive Custody. — A person taken into preventive custody shall be informed by the arresting or detaining law enforcement agents of the nature and cause of his or her arrest and detention. The arresting or detaining agents shall also inform the person detain of his or her right to remain silent and to have competent and independent counsel, preferably of his or her choice.

If the person cannot afford the services of counsel of his or her choice, the law enforcement agents concerned shall immediately contact the free legal assistance unit of the Integrated Bar of the Philippines (IBP) or the Public Attorney’s Office (PAO). It shall be the duty of the free legal assistance unit of the IBP or the PAO thus contacted to immediately visit the person in custody and provide legal assistance.

The person in preventive custody shall be allowed to communicate freely with his or her legal counsel and to confer with them at any time without restriction.
The person in preventive custody shall be allowed freely to avail of the service of a physician or physicians of choice. Furthermore, at the conclusion of the preventive custody, whether through the suspect’s release or the filing of formal charges, a physician shall conduct an examination of the suspect and submit a report of his or her condition to the Anti-Terrorism Council, the court that issued the commitment order, and, in the event that the person is charged, to the court where the case is raffled.

Nothing in this section shall be construed as limiting the rights of a person in preventive custody in relation to rights granted under the Constitution, other statutes, or rules of procedure.

SEC. 20. Penalty for Violation of the Rights of a Person in Preventive Custody. — Any law enforcement agent who violates any of the rights of a person in preventive custody pursuant to this Act shall be criminally liable under this Act and shall suffer the penalty of imprisonment for a period within ten (10) years and one (1) day to fifteen (15) years, without prejudice to administrative or civil liability under other laws.

If the law enforcement agent directly responsible for violating the rights of a suspect in preventive custody cannot be identified, the leader of the law enforcement unit having custody of the detainee at the time the violation was done shall be charged under this Act pursuant to the doctrine of command responsibility.

SEC. 21. Freeze Order. — The AMLC, either upon its own initiative or at the request of the Anti-Terrorism Council, is hereby authorized to issue an ex parte order to freeze without delay:

(2) Property or funds of any person, group of persons, terrorist organization, or association, in relation to whom there is probable cause to believe that they are committing or attempting or conspiring to commit, or participating in or facilitating the commission of financing of terrorism as defined herein.

The freeze order shall be effective for a period not exceeding twenty (20) days. Upon a petition filed by the AMLC before the expiration of the period, the effectivity of the freeze order may be extended up to a period not exceeding six (6) months upon order of the specially-designated division of the Court of Appeals: Provided, That the twenty-day period shall be tolled upon filing of a petition to extend the effectivity of the freeze order.

Notwithstanding the preceding paragraphs, the AMLC, consistent with the Philippines’ international obligations, shall be authorized to issue a freeze order with respect to property or funds of a designated organization, association, group or any individual to comply with binding terrorism-related Resolutions, including Resolution No. 1373, of the United Nations Security Council. This freeze order shall be effective until the basis for the issuance thereof is lifted.
During the effectivity of the freeze order, an aggrieved party may, within twenty (20) days from its issuance, file with the specially-designated division of the Court of Appeals a petition to determine the basis of the freeze order according to the principle of effective judicial protection.

However, if the property or funds subject of the freeze order under the immediately preceding paragraph are found to be in any way related to financing of terrorism or acts of terrorism committed within the jurisdiction of the Philippines, said property or funds shall be the subject of civil forfeiture proceedings in accordance with the Anti-Money Laundering Act, as promulgated by the Supreme Court.

SEC. 22. Suspension and Cancellation of Passports. — Upon the recommendation
