EIGTEENTH CONGRESS
First Regular Session
House Bill No. 5713

Introduced by HON. FRANCISCO G. DATOL, JR.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Section 4, Article XV of the Constitution declares that it is the duty of the family "to take care of its elderly while the State may design programs of social security for them."

 Upon this constitutional basis, this bill aims to amend certain provisions of the Revised Penal Code (RPC), specifically Articles 13 and 14, relating to the mitigating and aggravating circumstances affecting the elderly and senior citizens.

Senior citizens are, generally, frail, fragile, sensitive, susceptible to diseases and have weak reflexes. Unlike younger people, they could not put up a stand to defend themselves in case of any attack or violence inflicted against them.

According to World Health Organization (WHO), old age can be considered as a disorder of the self-regulation system in organism and a destroying process, when adoptive features of the organism are decreasing and the chance of death is increasing. In other words, the elderly people are generally in the twilight years of their remaining lives on earth.

Under our criminal justice system, minority as an age factor, would be considered as aggravating and mitigating circumstance in the commission of a crime. In like manner, seniority should be place in equal footing as either an aggravating or mitigating circumstance, if only to recognize the right of the elderly and senior citizens.

Hence, to serve as a deterrent to all would-be offender to victimize old, elderly and senior citizens in the commission of an offense, it is proposed that the age factor of the victim be considered as an aggravating circumstance under Articles 14 of the RPC. Similarly, if the offender is an elderly or senior citizen, due to their natural tendencies of having inadequate, mental and physical faculties.
Immediate consideration and approval of this bill is most earnestly sought.
