EIGHTEENTH CONGRESS
First Regular Session

House Bill No. 6044

INTRODUCED BY
REP. ALFRED VARGAS

AN ACT
INSTITUTING THE FORMER PRISONER’S EMPLOYMENT PROGRAM
AND APPROPRIATING FUNDS THEREFOR

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Society is judged not only by how well it takes care of its outstanding citizens but by how it treats its prisoners, according to philosopher Fyodor Dostoevsky. When offenders are released from prison, they are assumed to have undergone the necessary rehabilitation to once again be integrated into society.

However, offenders face a variety of challenges after they are released from prison - stigma from having been incarcerated, and discrimination, often in employment due to deprivation in terms of education. Most of these challenges hinder their ability to become law-abiding citizens. When they fail to become law-abiding citizens because of these barriers, institutions need to take an active role for greater reforms, and for second chances.

As such, prisons and correctional institutions ought to prepare offenders for social reintegration before release. That is the philosophy of a criminal justice system that aims to be more rehabilitative than punitive. This kind of perspective is geared towards comprehensive crime prevention whereas the system must include effective measures to prevent the cycle of failed adaptation by repeat offenders.

This bill seeks to provide support to ex-offenders and ensure that they establish productive and crime-free lives in the community through the creation of the Office of Employment Opportunities for Former Prisoners under the Department of Justice. The proposed office is directed to draft and implement provisions and policies for the training and employment of former prisoners.

Furthermore, this bill seeks to provide incentives to private establishments that will hire former prisoners.

To create a better community for everyone, the immediate passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
