EIGHTEENTH CONGRESS
First Regular Session

HOUSE BILL NO. 6051

Introduced by HON. LUIS RAYMUND "LRAY" F. VILLAFUERTE, JR.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The enactment of Republic Act No. 8972, also known as the Solo Parent’s Welfare Act, in 2000 marked a significant milestone in the government’s recognition of the changing structure and organization of the Filipino family in the face of growing pressures and challenges. The law sought to promote the family as the foundation of the nation, strengthen its solidarity, and ensure its total development.

The protection and promotion of the welfare of solo parents and their children further concretizes the government’s commitment to the principles enshrined in Article II Section 12 of the 1987 Constitution which provides that: "The State recognizes the sanctity of family life and shall protect and strengthen the family as a basic autonomous social institution. It shall equally protect the life of the mother and the life of the unborn child from conception. The natural and primary right and duty of parents in the rearing of the youth for civic efficiency and the development of moral character shall receive the support of the Government."

By providing a comprehensive package of social welfare services and development initiatives for solo parents and their children, the Solo Parent’s Welfare Act of 2000 enabled various programs at the national and local levels aimed at easing the burden of Filipino solo parents in rearing their children towards becoming productive citizens. Under the current law, solo parents are entitled to additional parental leave, flexible work schedule, scholarship programs, housing benefits, medical assistance, counseling services, and livelihood assistance.

Two decades since the enactment of the Solo Parent’s Welfare Act, Filipino families, particularly those led by solo parents as breadwinners and primary caregivers, face new challenges and burdens. The estimated number of Filipino solo parents in 2018 rose to 15 million, 95 percent of which are female, according to the Federation of Solo Parents Luzvimin.

In light of these, the amendment of R.A. No. 8972 is necessary in order to update the law’s provisions, make it more inclusive, and infuse new or expand existing benefits that reflect the changing times and challenges faced by the Filipino family. To further help solo parents cope with the challenges of raising their children on their own, this bill seeks to provide 15-percent discount on milk, food and food supplements, 15-percent discount on medicines and other medical supplements, 10-percent discount on clothing, 10-percent discount on tuition fees from grade school to college, and 20-percent discount on school supplies. Any person or company that denies or hinders a solo parent from availing any of the benefits shall be penalized.

This is a counterpart measure of Senate Bill No. 206 filed by Senator Christopher Lawrence “Bong” Go.

In view of the foregoing, the approval of this bill is earnestly sought.
