In 1991, Republic Act No. 7061, or the Local Government Code was passed into law, giving life to the Constitutional grant of taxing authority among Local Government Units (LGUs). Sec. 5, Art. X of the 1987 Constitution specifically provides that,

"Each local government unit shall have the power to create its own sources of revenues and to levy taxes, fees and charges subject to such guidelines and limitations as the Congress may provide, consistent with the basic policy of local autonomy..."

As provided under Sec. 237 of the Local Government Code of 1991, provinces, cities, and municipalities within Metro Manila may levy an additional idle land tax at a rate not exceeding five percent (5%) of the assessed value of the property, which is on top of the basic real property tax. The additional idle land tax was intended to penalize land owners who have failed to utilize their property over a considerable period of time, while at the same time providing additional source of revenue for the LGU.

Unfortunately, despite the disincentive imposed upon the owners of idle lands, many remained undeveloped, much less utilized. In fact, in February 2017, President Rodrigo R. Duterte announced that he plans to double the taxes of idle lands which will not be developed within a decade. The President said,

"Yung mga bakante na naghintay lang ng speculation, naghintay lang ng araw kung magmahal na ang lupa bago gamitin I will tax idle lands heavily."

Corollary, Republic Act No. 10176 was passed into law on July 2011 which mandated that all provinces, cities and municipalities with their component barangays to fix an appropriate date every calendar year which shall be deemed suitable according to the proper time and season for planting trees in the respective provinces and their respective component municipalities or cities. Section 8 of the same law further provided that all able-bodied citizens of the Philippines, who are at least twelve (12) years of age, shall be required to plant one (1) tree every year.
Notwithstanding the power given to LGUs to tax idle lands, available Government Data showed that only the City of Marikina, among the Metropolitan Manila Cities, imposed such tax which in turn allowed the city to generate a total collection of Php 243.1 million from 2002 to 2009. Neither the enactment of R.A. 10176 improved the utilization of idle lands, considering that many Filipinos who have the financial resources are acquiring lands or real estate, merely for investment and not for a gainful endeavor that will make the land productive.

Consistent with the President’s pronouncement to encourage land use and development, as well as promote the people’s right to a balanced and healthful ecology, it is hereby proposed that the pertinent provisions under the Local Government Code, pertaining to imposition of idle land tax be amended as proposed under this Act.

In view of the foregoing, approval of this bill is earnestly sought.
