Republic of the Philippines
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Quezon City

EIGHTEENTH CONGRESS
First Regular Session

House Bill No. 6766

Introduced by HON. ROZZANO RUFINO B. BIAZON

EXPLANATORY NOTE

In 2014, the Department of Health (DOH) estimated that the Philippines had only 3.5 physicians for every 10,000 people. Government physician to patient ratio, meanwhile, was at 3 to 100,000. The ideal ratio should be 1 to 1.5 physicians for every 1,000 population. The shortage is even more evident in rural areas where only one physician is available to serve 33,000 people. On the other hand, nurses and midwives (per 1,000 people) was reported at 0.24 in 2015 according to the World Bank.

These alarming ratios are the results, significantly, of migration to other countries in search of higher salaries and better opportunities. It could get worse if we do not provide our doctors, nurses, midwives as well as other health workers better working conditions and decent pay and benefits commensurate to their qualifications.

In the midst of the current global pandemic, health workers, including those working in government hospitals, research institutions and local government units, are at the frontline of the COVID-19 outbreak response. They are exposed to hazards that put them at risk of infection. These perils include pathogen exposure, long working hours, psychological distress, fatigue, occupational burn-out, stigma, physical and psychological violence.

There are endless stories about these government health workers having to endure physical and mental exhaustion. There is the torment of difficult triage decisions. The pain of losing patients and colleagues.

As of April 22, 2020, the DOH reported that more than 1,000 health workers in the country were positive for the coronavirus disease, most of whom are physicians.

This proposed measure aims to address the government’s crisis in health workforce by upgrading their minimum salary grade levels by two (2) salary grade levels. It seeks to discourage the country’s medical professionals from leaving the country. It seeks to make their salaries more competitive. The bill also provides them a much-deserved additional benefit and incentive. But most important, this proposed measure is a gesture of recognition of their unselfish sacrifices and efforts in times of public health crises such as the COVID-19 outbreak.
The proposed increase in the basic salaries of the government health workers is a leap from the pitiable and insulting present entry level salaries. However, it is not really the increase in the amount of salary that matters. It is the acknowledgement of their important roles in our public health system as our everyday heroes, and presently, our brave frontliners in the fight against a global pandemic.

For the foregoing reasons, the immediate consideration and passage of this bill is earnestly urged.
