EXPLANATORY NOTE

This bill aims to provide for the permanent validity of the certificates of live birth, death, and marriage issued, signed, certified, or authenticated by the Philippine Statistics Authority (PSA), the local civil registry offices and the National Statistics Office (NSO).

The Certificate of live birth, the Certificate of Death, and the Certificate of Marriage serve as permanent records of vital events of each individual in the Civil Registry. The data therein do not change and cannot be altered unless, a modification in information, a court order or administrative correction is indicated as remark or annotation in the document. These certificates are required in government and private transactions involving education, employment, and social security benefits and serve as the primary requirements for securing vital government-issued documents or identification cards such as a passport or driver’s license.

The certificates of live birth, death, and marriage issued by the PSA and the NSO are printed on a security paper (SECPA). In a June 2016 press statement, the PSA clearly stated that some features, such as the color of the SECPA wherein the document is being printed, are changed over time. This is done to prevent the proliferation of counterfeit documents. However, the change in color does not render the previously issued document invalid or expired, unless it has become tattered or unreadable and there have been authorized annotations due to changes in facts. The PSA emphasized that those certificates they issue should have no expiry date and clarified that those issued by the NSO have no expiration and are the same as those issued by the PSA.

Considering the confusion surrounding the validity of PSA-issued certificates, it has been a known practice that a majority of our government agencies and employers require applicants to submit the certificate of live birth, or death or marriage printed on the latest SECPA and issued within the last six (6) months. This is burdensome to Filipinos as it imposes inconvenience and unnecessary expenses, most especially to those who live in remote areas in the countryside. The provisions of this bill aim to remedy that.

In the absence of PSA-issued certificates of live birth, death, and marriage, this bill likewise allows the submission of certificates or certified true copies of the original issued and signed by the local civil registrar and the NSO. For this purpose, developing a linkage between the PSA and local civil registry offices through a civil registry database and virtual viewing facility will allow easy verification of civil registry documents.

This measure further strengthens the objective of Republic Act No. 11032 or the “Ease of Doing Business and Efficient Government Service Delivery Act of 2018” to streamline the current systems and procedures of government services.

In view of the foregoing, immediate approval of this bill is earnestly sought.
