EIGHTEENTH CONGRESS
Second Regular Session

House Bill No. 7828

Introduced by REP. NAEALLA BAINITO AGUINALDO

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Since its establishment and initial amendments in the early 1960's, under Republic Act No. 2705 and the amending Republic Act No. 4152, the Legal Staff of the Department of Justice, primarily mandated to assist the Secretary of Justice in the performance of his duties as Attorney General of the Philippines and as ex-officio legal adviser of government corporations, has evolved with the political, legal, social, and economic development of the Philippine landscape – leading to greater undertakings and responsibilities that the authors of both RA 2705 and RA 4152 were not able to foresee.

Despite the unprecedent increase in the duties of the Legal Staff, the salaries and other benefits granted to State Counsels, who perform the same, if not greater, undertakings and responsibilities as their counterparts in the Office of the Solicitor General and in the National Prosecution Service, are not comparable to those already enjoyed by the latter agencies.

The time-honored principle of "equal work, equal pay," meaning persons who work with substantially equal qualifications, skills, and responsibilities under similar conditions should be paid similar salaries and benefits, has long been institutionalized in our jurisdiction. Thus, it is high-time that the overburdened and underpaid State Counsels of the Department of Justice be given similar benefits as that of their counterparts.

Likewise, by reason of the ever-increasing undertakings and responsibilities of the Legal Staff, it is essential to expand its office by increasing its plantilla positions and the corresponding general and administrative support personnel. Thereby, the Legal Staff would be in a better position and would have the capacity to perform its official functions for the benefit not only of the Secretary of Justice, but also the rest of the government and the public in general.

I had the privilege of collaborating with the Legal Staff when I was still serving in the Department of Justice, and witnessed firsthand their perseverance and brilliance in tackling legal issues imbued with public interest. It is high-time to recognize and appreciate the function and service of the Legal Staff through the enactment of this legislative measure that will provide the institution more strength and protection.
