Republic of the Philippines
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Quezon City, Metro Manila

Eighteenth Congress
Second Regular Session

HOUSE BILL NO. 7910

Introduced by:
Honorable DAVID C. SUAREZ

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Coconut remains to be one of the most important crops and a major export of the Philippines. The Philippines is one of the largest producers of coconut in the world, second to Indonesia. However, despite the continued boom of coconut exports, there has been no significant improvement in the coconut industry for past years.

The total current number of coconut farmers is at 2,513,457 as reported by the Philippine Coconut Authority.

The coconut industry plays a major role in the economic and agricultural development of the country. Based on the 2018 Selected Statistics on Agriculture published by the Philippines Statistics Authority, a total of 14,049,100 metric tons of coconuts were produced by the country in 2017. Coconut consistently ranks third among the crops with the highest volume production from 2013 to 2017. It places second among the crops with the largest areas planted/harvested, next to palay. In terms of export, coconut-based products have been among the top export products of the country. Clearly, the contribution of the coconut industry is significant to our economic gains. However, it is saddening that the support obtained by our coconut farmers from the government is inversely proportional. There is a decreasing trend in the world copra prices and domestic farm-gate prices. Moreover, coconut remains vulnerable to destruction during typhoon season. It can be recalled that the country lost 33 million coconut trees from the destruction brought by typhoons Pablo and Yolanda.

The Supreme Court has previously declared that the coconut levy fund and coconut levy assets are owned by the government and must be used only for the intended purpose of benefiting all coconut farmers and development of the coconut industry. In this regard, this bill aims to create a special fund that shall be called the Coconut Farmers and Industry Development Trust Fund. This Trust Fund shall originate from the coconut levy fund and its assets and shall be allocated to support our coconut farmers and for the research and development of the coconut industry in the country, in compliance with the Supreme Court decision.

In view of the foregoing, the approval of this bill is earnestly sought.

DAVID “JAY JAY” C. SUAREZ
Representative
2nd District, Quezon Province
