WHEREAS, Congress also allocated P3,963,500,000 for the MOOE of the development of the New Clark City and P9,544,000,000 for the construction of sports facilities in the National Government Administrative Center under the 2019 budget of the Bases Conversion and Development Authority (BCDA);

WHEREAS, the public calls for full transparency: thus, there is a need for itemization of the budget for the hosting of 2019 SEA Games;

WHEREAS, the New Clark City Sports Complex in Tarlac, Pampanga served as the main venue of the SEA Games. However, only four sporting events – Aquatics-Diving, Aquatics-Swimming, Aquatics-Water Polo and Athletics – were held in New Clark City. There are other venues, specifically in Subic in Zambales, Tagaytay City in Cavite and Metro Manila. Most of the events were held in Metro Manila, including basketball, volleyball and weightlifting;\(^1\)

WHEREAS, as of November 24, 2019, PHISGOC Chief Operating Officer Ramon Suzara said that 50 out of 56 venues for the SEA Games had been completed. Suzara claimed that the venues are all ready since October. He also assured that the other unfinished venues would be completed on time for the games;\(^2\)

WHEREAS, on February 2, 2018, the P11-billion joint venture agreement was signed by BCDA President and CEO Vivencio Dizon and Malaysian firm MTD Capital Berhad (MTD) Director Isaac David to build the Phase 1A of the New Clark City project. The joint venture agreement includes the construction of the National Government Administrative Center (NGAC) and sports facilities – a 20,000-seater athletic stadium, a 2,000-seater aquatics center and an athletes’ village with commercial banks and restaurants – to be used for the 30th SEA Games;

WHEREAS, it can be recalled that the Philippine Competition Commission approved the joint venture between BCDA and MTD on March 13, 2018. The unsolicited proposal to build NGAC in a joint venture with BCDA based on the 2017 BCDA Guidelines On The Privatization and Disposition of BCDA Properties was submitted to BCDA and approved as declared in BCDA’s Board Resolution No. 2017-10-169. MTD and BCDA also subjected the project to a Swiss challenge, in accordance with BCDA Guidelines, where MTD as original proponent won;³

WHEREAS, MTD shouldered the P8.51 billion construction cost of the sports facilities, while BCDA will contribute 40 hectares of the project site as equity capital. Also, the Malaysian firm is entitled to a maximum P2.5-billion return on investment and 50% income from the sports facilities of New Clark City for 25 years;

WHEREAS, according to a Rappler report, Office of the Government Corporate Counsel (OGCC), though its Contract Review No. 068 dated January 30, 2018 for the draft joint venture, said that the agreement between the BCDA and MTD is not a joint venture, but a build-and-transfer scheme, subject to public bidding. It further stated that only the agreement for the construction of NGAC is a joint venture, since MTD will shoulder the cost of the construction and BCDA will come to own the facilities without any costs, unlike the agreement for the construction of sports facilities wherein BCDA will have to pay a total of P11.1 billion, subjected to an annual installment of P2.2 billion for five years, after the completion and acceptance of the project;

WHEREAS, in November 22, 2019, BCDA claimed that the OGCC, in its Opinion No. 182, s.
2018, confirmed that the “provisions of the executed joint venture agreement and the legal framework of the Project are in compliance with existing laws, rules and regulations;”⁴

WHEREAS, BCDA will pay in full upon the completion and acceptance of the sports facilities to avoid payment of additional interest, as approved and reflected in the 2019 General Appropriations Act passed by Congress. Upon completion of the payment, BCDA will receive 100% share on the revenues of the facilities;⁵

WHEREAS, questions were raised of the need to build new sports facilities in the New Clark City, especially that Rizal Memorial Stadium in Manila could have been upgraded for only P1.2 billion. Proponents of the new facilities justified that the sports complex can be rented out to foreign teams as training venues after the SEA Games. However, there are news reports, particularly by the British Broadcasting Corp., showing that hosting international sports events like the Olympics can be an economic burden on a country, especially if the host country has to build the facilities. Throughout Olympic history, the venues are abandoned after the event;

WHEREAS, last November 19, 2019, during the Senate deliberation on the budget of PSC, Senate Minority Leader Franklin Drilon interpellated House Speaker Alan Peter Cayetano, as the chairman of the PHISGOC, on the P6 billion allotted under 2019 budget to host the SEA Games. According to Speaker Cayetano, the Department of Budget and Management Procurement Services (DBM-PS) passed the handling of the budget to the Philippine Olympic Committee (POC). However, POC opted out and left the P1.5 billion to PHISGOC;

WHEREAS, Speaker Cayetano said that POC and PHISGOC were overwhelmed and lacked procurement lawyers to bid out the contracts that left PHISGOC no choice but to accept P1.5 billion as “financial assistance;”

WHEREAS, the “financial assistance” would be allocated for broadcast expenses, talent fee, ocular site visits, special meetings, workshop and training, gametime medical requirements, fixtures, and other operating expenses. Of the P1.5 billion, P700 million was already disbursed and the remaining around P800 million would be spent before the opening of the SEA Games on November 30;

WHEREAS, according to Section 4.5 of the Implementing Rules and Regulation of the RA 9184 or the Government Procurement Act, “direct financial or material assistance given to beneficiaries” are not considered as procurement activities;

WHEREAS, the Senate and PHISGOC left it to the Commission on Audit (COA) and the independent auditor hired by the PHISGOC to audit the funds for full transparency;

WHEREAS, days before the formal opening of biennial Games, the same was saddled with mishaps and controversies. For example, WRC Construction workers, augmented by the Department of Public Works and Highways, worked round-the-clock to install the 1,000-capacity bleachers and roofs for the audience and to finish the painting of skating ramps. According to the contractor, the sports complex near Tagaytay International Convention Center that would host cycling, BMX and skateboard competitions on December 4, consisting of a three-hectare skate park and cycling oval, was 93-95% finished as of November 26, 2019;

WHEREAS, there were also various reports of still unfinished – in varying stages – of several events venue. Even the venue for the makeshift press conference, which was used as a working area for journalists covering the advanced football games, at the Rizal Memorial Stadium remained unfinished before the start of Malaysia vs. Myanmar football game held last November 25, 2019;

WHEREAS, hours before the sports event, Richard Delos Santos, one of the 27 construction workers from the DPWH who were originally based in Sta. Mesa, Manila, lost his balance due to heavy rainfall and fell around 11 AM, while taking down the scaffolding around the stadium. Delos Santos also claimed that he was sleep-deprived when he fell. According to a news report, the “management advised its workers to finish the renovation and remove all scaffolding exactly at 10 AM considering the 4 PM schedule of the football game” in the Rizal Memorial Stadium. He sustained leg injuries and skull fractures and was rushed to the Ospital ng Maynila;

WHEREAS, one Arnold Labadan, who is the authorized representative of the Filipino-Malaysian joint venture L.C. Ting Construction and WSL-MSC that was awarded a P388-million contract last October 11, 2019 to supply the Southeast Asian Games Information System (SEAGIS), lamented that while their software is ready but the other necessary network infrastructures, connectivity and cloud are not. Atty. Josie Osias, the spokesperson of PHISGOC, said that they already asked for the proposals from the three (3) network providers, with the funds coming from the PSC. He claimed that the fund to be used will fall under financial assistance, hence, no public bidding will take place;\(^9\)

WHEREAS, Labadan, whose business interest is mining, construction and shipping admitted that he has no experience in information technology and games management. Available data for L.C. Ting Construction shows that it was awarded P7.3-billion worth of government projects, particularly for building roads, flood projects, school buildings and classroom since 2008;

WHEREAS, WSL-MSC, a sports management system provider, which provided the information communication technology for the SEA Games held in Laos in 2009, in Indonesia in 2011, and in Malaysia in 2017, received a Notice of Award from DBM-PS just seven weeks before the Games;

WHEREAS, the public also raised questions on the cost of construction of the 3-meter wide and 50-meter high stadium cauldron, which, according to Sen. Drilon, received a budget allocation of P4.48 million for the design, P13.44 million for the foundation, and P32 million for the construction;

WHEREAS, Speaker Cayetano defended the controversial P50-million stadium cauldron saying it is cheaper than Singapore's P63 billion cauldron in 2015 and justified it as a “work of art” designed by the late National Artist for Architecture Francesc Mañosa. The breakdown of the cost of the cauldron according to PHISGOC is as follows:

- Design and construction of the main cauldron: P 7 million
- Mechanism to keep flame lit for 264 hours: P 18 million
- Development of monument site: P 17 million
- Fuel cost for 11 days: P 5 million;

WHEREAS, PHISGOC asked the PSC to sponsor the sportswear for the Filipino athletes amounting to P59.2 million. In a letter dated April 25, 2019 obtained by Politiko, PHISGOC asked PSC Chairman William Ramirez to shoulder the cost of P1,150 sets of sportswear from Asics, a foreign sportswear brand, worth P41,160 each. The following is the supposed price-per-item breakdown of the sportswear for the Filipino SEA Games athletes:

- Polo shirt: P5,150
- Round neckshirt: P2,480
- Track jacket: P6,310
- Track pants: P7,400
- Shorts: P5,100
- Socks: P2,700
- Backpack: P3,190
- Running shoes: P3,950
- Cap: P2,400

WHEREAS, SEA Games organizers allegedly asked Pamela Mejia, founder of fashion accessory brands Phinis and Fibers Collective, to make 5,000 woven bags and allegedly offered a “para sa bayan” price of P50 per bag woven by person with disabilities;\(^10\)

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the House of Representatives, through the Committee on Good Government and Public Accountability, investigate, in aid of legislation, the controversies involving the use of funds allocated to host the 30th Southeast Asian Games.
