HOUSE BILL NO. 2700

INTRODUCED BY: REPRESENTATIVE MARISOL C. PANOTES

EXPLANATORY NOTE

This bill seeks to institutionalize Barangay Health Workers (BHWs) in every barangay throughout the country.

The important role played by BHWs in delivering frontline health care services even to the remotest barangays in the country has reached both houses of Congress in 1995, when it enacted into law Republic Act No. 7883 which granted incentives and benefits, like Hazard Allowance, Subsistence Allowance and other non-monetary benefits to them. It is however, a reality that the incentives and benefits granted under the aforementioned law were not even sufficient for their daily sustenance because their benefits are left to the determination by the local health board. They were even often subjected to political persecution for the reason that they are unjustly terminated upon the change of barangay administration wasting in the process their years of training and experience in the field of health care delivery.

It is therefore just and proper for these hardworking very important workers of the barangays that their efforts must be given due recognition by way of granting incentives and benefits that will properly motivate them to work doubly harder.

It is worthy to mention that the government began to train BHWs to fill the vacuum left by doctors and nurses, who opted to look for greener pasture abroad, which had resulted in what was then called the "brain-drain". These BHWs, who perform vital functions in the delivery of frontline health services to the people in every barangay, including far-flung barangays, have been doing multi-tasks serving as a leader, as a teacher, and as a service provider, to attend to the immediate needs of the barangay.

The noble objective of this bill is not only to grant security of tenure to accredited BHWs but also to provide a monthly honorarium in the amount equivalent to not less than the minimum wage of workers in a particular locality in addition to their hazard and subsistence allowances and other non-monetary benefits granted under existing laws. These BHWs shall only be terminated for cause or upon reaching the retirement age of sixty-five (65) years. Under this situation, the experience and trainings they had accumulated over the years will not go down the drain to the great benefit of the people in the barangay.

The foregoing reasons warrant the approval of this bill.
