House Bill No. 2736

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The Constitution, Article 2, Section 15 provides:

"The State shall protect and promote the right to health of the people and instill health consciousness among them."

Hepatitis C is a blood-borne pathogen that is a major cause of chronic liver disease, which according to the American Liver Foundation, is common among emergency response employees and volunteers due to the unique nature of their jobs.

Since there is no known cure for hepatitis C, the government should expend efforts to prevent emergency response employees from getting infected with the disease.

Hence, this bill seeks to provide for a study to determine the prevalence of hepatitis C among firefighters, paramedics, emergency medical technicians and other emergency response employees and undertake demonstration projects to provide training, testing, and treatment regarding cases of the disease among such employees and volunteers.
